MARYLAND

...This year...

... in the 1953 Terrapin we bring you a glimpse of life on the Maryland campus. This is not merely an academic picture; rather it is a picture of the University known only to those of us who have lived its friendliness, its warmth, and its boundless enthusiasm. We hope it is a portrait of the intangible spirit that permeates our University, of the friendliness that carries us between the red brick buildings with a cheerful "Hello", of the enthusiasm that warms us during those frosty fall afternoons as we root on our hearted Terps, and of the welcoming spirit that greets the freshman with a smile and causes him to leave four years later with a happier and far wiser smile. It is this spirit of friendliness and cooperation that have made our small task of bringing you this yearbook such a happy one. It is with the greatest pleasure that we give you your yearbook, a recollection of your Maryland memories. The book is ours only in the sense that we were the ones to write these words; it is really yours, for you are the Maryland student who has lived these pages. You are that frenzied scholar struggling over those flasks in chem lab, you are that student strolling along our oak-shaded lanes, you are that cheering individual at the pep rallies, you are that happy person who has lived the fun of Maryland. And so we give you your book, a composite picture, we hope, of your days at our University. We have enjoyed bringing it to you; we hope you will enjoy it too . . .

. . . sincerely

FALL

The capering russet leaves usher in a new year at Maryland. Fall, with its Greek parties and its gay football season, is upon us again. From registration to Thanksgiving we are swept along in the merry whirl of Maryland activities . . . the Pledge Dance, the brief but glorious three day home stand of our Terps, Homecoming as the old grads return to find the campus decorated with turtles and pictures of Dr. Byrd in 1920 football attire, the Calvert Cotillion and the ODK tapping of our campus leaders, that fabulous Boston weekend when Marylanders invade New England to cheer our Terps on to another victory . . . the bleak sky becomes more and more visible through the thinning trees . . . fall is over.

TOP . . . Snappy winds sweep past the Agriculture Building, where young Farmer of America consorts with future Homemaker as to results of recent harvest . . .

SIDE . . . Campus Co-eds relax on the Mall in front of Margaret Brent Hall after a full day of classes . . .

TOP . . . The snow-decked portico of Annie A. gazes toward the tranquility of Dorm II. Who would guess these peaceful buildings housed three hundred coeds?

SIDE . . . The bundled figures emerge from the Men's Dorms to plod their way across campus . . .

WINTER—Brisk winds usher in the winter season, which brings with it basketball games, exams, and other such activities which help to stimulate circulation. There was a new touch to Christmas at Maryland this year; our Chapel chimed forth with favorite Christmas carols during the few weeks preceding the holiday season.

SIDE . . . In this modern building our engineers are busy planning the roads, bridges, and electrical inventions of tomorrow . . . Science marches forward . . .

BOTTOM . . . From the newly constructed Chapel steps we view spring as it envelops our campus in its quiet beauty. The busy admirers hurry to their next class.

SPRING—When spring comes to Maryland, it brings with it numerous activities. The Junior Prom, with the crowning of Miss Maryland, starts off the busy season. Then the politicians come out of hiding and the Maryland campus becomes a collection of posters and campaign literature. Rallies in the Grill are climaxed by the elections the following day. May Day brings with it the pageantry and suspense as the Mortar Board hopefuls await the tapping. Spring passes all too quickly, and a bright June morning finds our seniors sadly realizing that the rolled diplomas signify the passing of four happy years.

During the course of every college year an unusual flow of happenings and events which are different from those of any previous year. One of the most striking interruptions to campus life this year was the stealing of Billie the Goat from his home at the Academy. This episode came as a forebode to the Navy game at College Park. Billie, however, was returned "safe and sound".

Homecoming, as usual, was a great success, as also was Dad's Day. The Football Season was followed by a series of concerts that featured such guest stars as Yehudi Menuhin and Oscar Levant. The fall and spring University Theatre productions were very well done and brought enjoyment and a moment's relaxation to all. Spring was quickly upon us and brought with it the excitement of Interfraternity Sing and May Day.

The year has been a crowded but enjoyable one, all have worked for the betterment of the University.

With the opening of the fall term came the inevitable registration week with all its confusion. Some lines seemed unending; many nerves were shattered, yet eventually everyone completed his schedule, paid his bill and rushed out to enjoy the activity on the agenda of orientation week.

pep rallies

Before every football game the students gather for a pep rally. Held anywhere from Annie A. to College Avenue, the rallies add to the excitement in the air around football time.

This year the highlight of the season was the noise rally, an innovation on campus.

ODK taps at the Calvert Cotillion

An important event highlighting the autumn social season was the Calvert Cotillion in November. Invitations were issued to fifty outstanding junior and senior men, and important members of the faculty who are members of Omicron Delta Kappa.

The formal dinner dance, held in the Presidential Room of the dining hall was followed by a brief address by Dr. Harry C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland.

Climaxing the program of the evening was the tapping ceremony when eight men, outstanding in various phases of campus life, were signified as eligible for membership in ODK. For the rest of the evening a festive air pervaded as the couples danced to the music of Mel Huxett.

Homecoming, the most exciting event of the fall, brought with it a bright October day, loyal alumni, golden chrysanthemums, gaily decorated floats and houses, a victorious football game, the traditional dance, and a new queen. Maryland in the Twenties was the theme for the day, and was carried out in the decorations of the floats, houses, and the dance.

Sorority house decorations were judged early in the morning and excitement mounted as the parade of floats started past the reviewing stand, winding its way through the campus and down College Avenue.

Alumni, students, and football fans hurried into the stadium. During half time the Homecoming Queen of 1952 was presented, Elizabeth Poisal of Alpha Chi Omega. The winning fraternity in the float contest was Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Delta Gamma won the cup for the best house decorations. The game came to an exciting close with Maryland defeating Louisiana State University 34-6.

Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra were featured that evening at the dance, making a wonderful ending to a full, exciting day.

harmony hall

The third annual Harmony Hall, to encourage the development of barber shop quartets within the fraternities, was held in the Coliseum on December 5th. Twelve hundred people were present when, out of the ten fraternities participating, SAE was awarded the cup for first place by Wayne Smith, chairman of the event sponsored by Phi Kappa Tau. Art Lamb and Aletha Agee, TV disc jockeys on WTOP, were the emcees. The past vice-president of the SPEVSQA (society for barber shop quartets), Mr. Gene Boardman, and Mr. James Ewin, one of three qualified judges of barber shop quartets in D.C., judged the quartets on five main points: presentation, appearance, tone, blend, and interpretation.

While most of the students of Maryland were at home couped up indoors due to the cold weather, the Gymkhana troupe was spending a leisurely week in one of the world's famous honeymoon resorts, Bermuda. Here they put on one of their finest and most elaborate shows of the year. At mid-semester registration many of the troupe members could be distinguished by their tans and newly acquired sombreros. Besides this trip, they toured five army bases in Virginia over the Thanksgiving holidays. These army base tours were started last year when they were flown to Idaho and Montana by the Air Force for a series of shows.

Every Friday evening buses can be seen in front of the old gym being filled with equipment used in the performances given at the local high schools.

In their Annual Home Show, variety was introduced in the form of magicians, jugglers and dance acts. The amazing "Terrapins", Carolyn Cheek, George Kramer, and Paul Simmers, highlighted the show with their triple-balance act.

yehudi menuhin

Yehudi Menuhin, one of the world's greatest violinists, was the guest of the National Symphony Orchestra at their first of a series of concerts held at the Coliseum during the months of February and March.

Many turned out to hear Mr. Menuhin as he played Tchaikovsky's Suite from "The Swan Lake", Wagner's Overture to "Die Meistersinger", and other selections with the National Symphony Orchestra, which was conducted by Howard Mitchell.

rossborough dance

Reigning queen at the annual Rossborough dance was Joan Eccles, Kappa Kappa Gamma, the Phi Sigma Kappa's candidate. All the girls up for queen received bouquets which they carried in the procession to the platform for the crowning. The queen's crown was of holly in tradition with Christmas. Dean Reid, Colonel Wharton, and Dean Smith judged the queen on beauty, poise, and personality. Many turned out to make the dance a success, and start off the Christmas season in the typical spirit of merriment.

ka minstrel

The dark days between the Christmas holiday and exam week are brightened every year by the coming of the Kappa Alpha Minstrel Show. The KAs and their audiences enjoyed a week of merriment and comedy that ended all too soon.

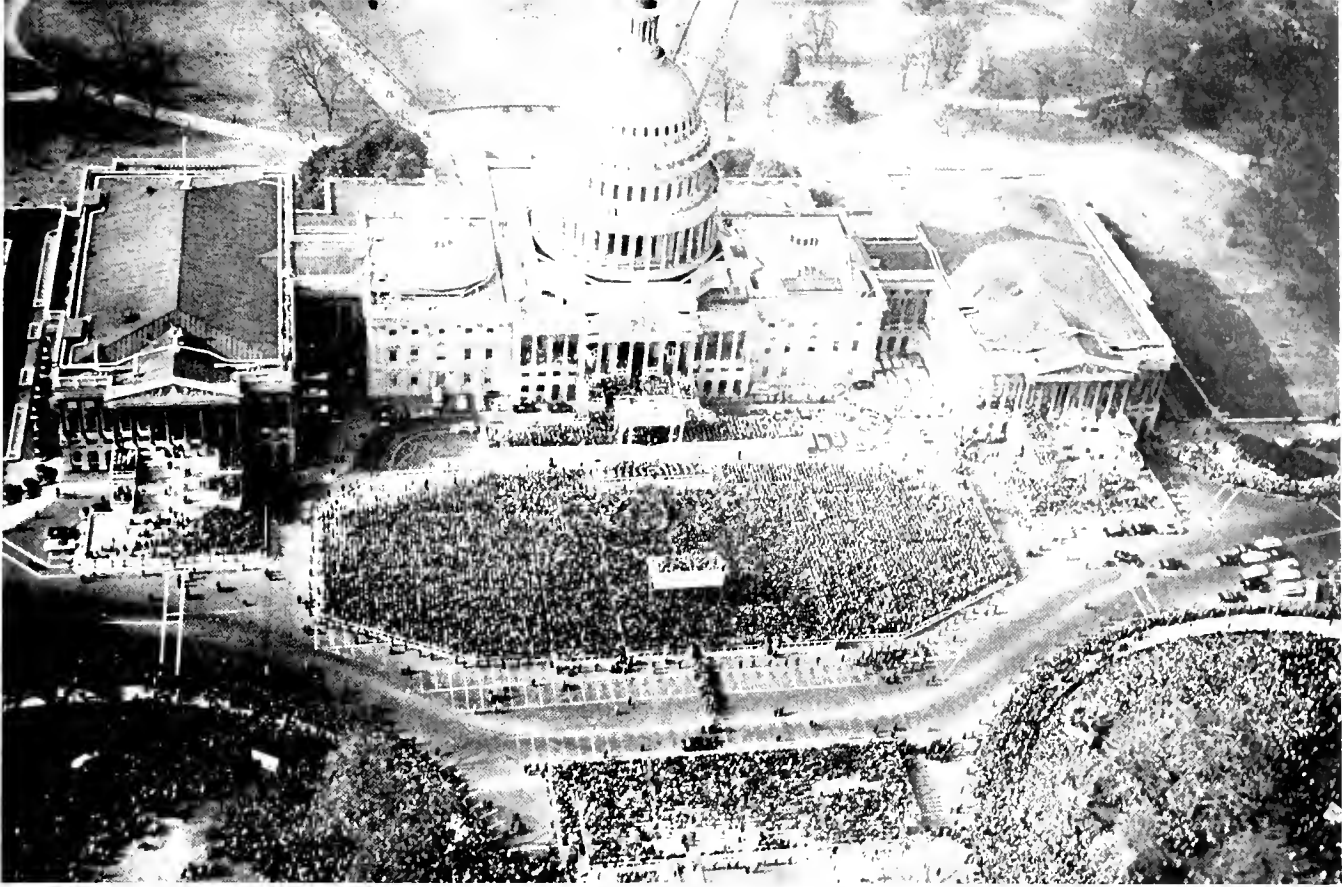

Included in the cast were a number of singing groups, dancing acts, and jokesters with KAs soloist, Mickey Ranft, Kappa Delta, and Walt Burch, Delta Sigma Phi, their indispensable accompanist.

Maryland salutes IKE

This January, University of Maryland students were fortunate to be right at hand for the Inauguration of President Eisenhower. Although a majority of the students watched the inaugural proceedings seated comfortably at the nearest TV set, many were ambitious and set out for the Capitol to see Ike in person. However, standing room was limited. The climax of the day for many Maryland students was the marching of the Maryland unit of Air Force Cadets at 7 o'clock that evening.

The annual Inter Fraternity Ball was held between semesters in the Presidential Ball Room of the Statler Hotel. Attended by 2500 Maryland students, the dance was a huge success. The music was provided by Charlie Spivak and his orchestra. Toward the middle of the evening a scholarship award was presented to Alpha Tau Omega by the Phi Deltas, and the athletic awards were given to Kappa Alpha and Alpha Gamma Rho. Gate and Key, fraternity honorary, tapped 31 outstanding fraternity men as new members. Mrs. Sam Phillips received the Order of the Golden Garter from Joe Murphy, President of Gate and Key.

George Ward, lucky sophomore president does the honors.

Chandeliers, statuettes, and royal purple decorations carried out the theme at the Sophomore Coronation Ball in March. Dancing continued the entire evening with Tommy Tucker and his orchestra featured and Howard Devron's band. During the intermission the procession of sophomore queen candidates, who were chosen by members of sororities and women's dorms, entered the Armory and formed a semi-circle in front of the bandstand. At that time Willis Conover, Washington disc jockey and band leader, announced the queen of the Sophomore Prom as Nancy Mularkey, Delta Delta Delta, who received her crown from George Ward.

national symphony

Students were fortunate in being privileged to attend a concert by the National Symphony Orchestra in February in Maryland's Ritchie Coliseum. The orchestra, under the direction of Howard Mitchell, presented Pergolesi's "Concertina for Strings" and Tchaikovsky's "Sixth Symphony" better known as "Pathetique". Jorge Bolet, famous Cuban Pianist, was guest soloist and played Rachmaninoff's "Third Piano Concerto".

Rhapsody in Blue was the theme of the annual junior prom held in March. Blue and silver decorations transformed the armory into a lovely setting for the year's outstanding formal dance held on campus which is given by the junior class in honor of the seniors. Music for the prom, which lasted from nine until one, was furnished by Billy May.

The highlight of the evening came when Don Erlbeck, Terrapin editor, announced the name of the winner of the title, Miss Maryland, Miss Frances Beury. The identity of the queen had been kept a secret until that moment.

As Miss Maryland reigned from her throne, the couples honored her with the promenade which was led by the presidents of the junior and senior classes and the co-chairmen of the prom.

ARCHITECTS

A drawing of the plans for the Student Union Building which will be located on University Lane near the entrance to the stadium, to be completed in 1954.

Next year students will be attending basketball games and boxing matches in the Physical Education Activities Building located on University Lane near Student Union.

Colonial style fraternity houses such as this are expected to be housing forty men by football season in the fall of 1953.

things to come

Maryland's ever increasing campus expands more and more each year. This year administration, faculty, and students are eagerly awaiting the completion of Fraternity Row scheduled for next fall and the Student Union Building and Physical Education Activities Building due for 1954.

The houses included in Fraternity Row will include a kitchen, dining room, chapter room, and maid's room on the basement floor; the first floor will contain a living room, two lounges, a library, and the housemother's suite; the second and third floors will be devoted to rooms for the men.

The Student Union Building's plans specify accommodations for a post office, snack bar, book store and game rooms, an auditorium, offices for men's league, women's league, and the student government, a music room, meeting rooms, several lounges, and a serving kitchen on each floor.

Included in the Physical Education Activities Building will be an auditorium, offices for all physical education personnel, trophy rooms, and individual rooms for gymkhana, wrestling, and boxing practices.

Tentative plans for the future include a library, a building for journalism and classrooms, and men's and women's dormitories.

From the enthusiastic debates at the Student Government meetings to the late hour rehearsals at University Theatre, Maryland offers an activity for every type of mind. The journalists on campus find their outlet in working on student publications. The religious groups give opportunity for relaxation as well as for cultured and religious advancement for their members.

The Rosaborough Club and the M Club inject school spirit into social functions and give both the Independents and the Greeks a common goal.

The Departmental clubs give their members the opportunity to meet leaders in their fields and to discuss techniques in their areas.

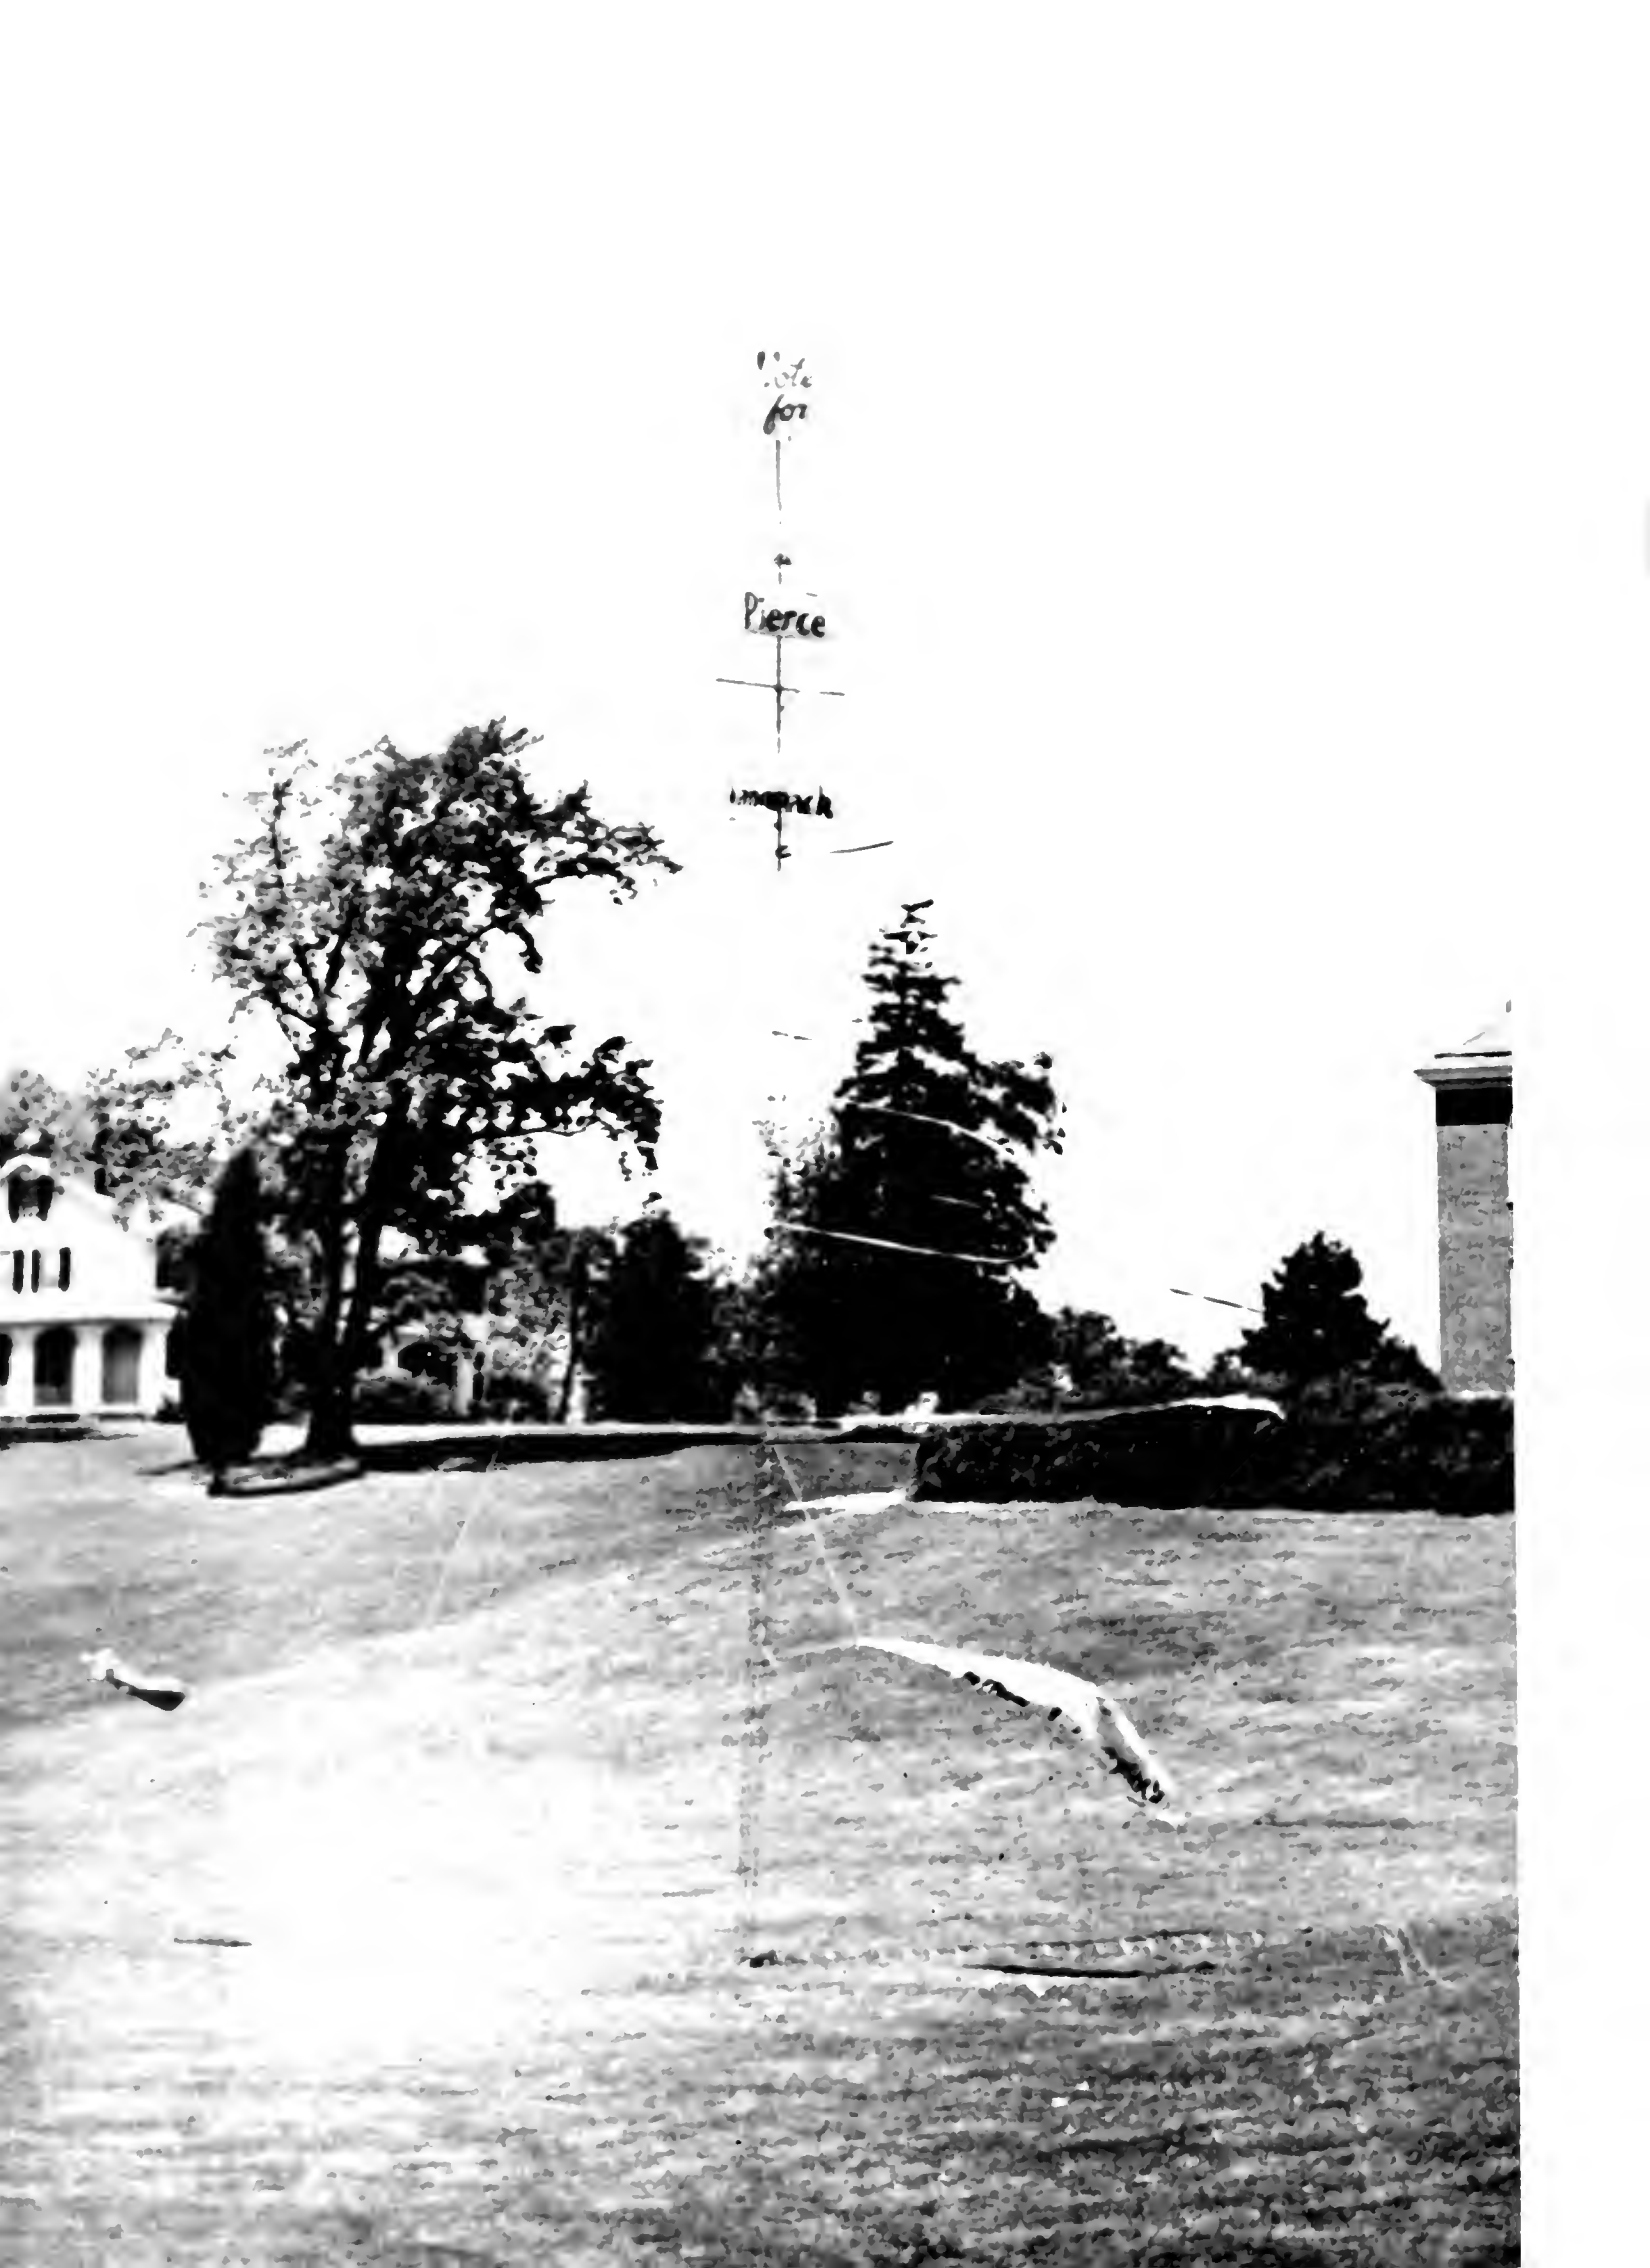

The wide range of opportunities on the Maryland campus give the students the benefit of the recreational and educational background that is necessary for a genuine college life.

March

On election day, electioneering overrides classes!

VOTING—

During the first week of May the campus becomes the scene of political harangues, littered scraps of paper, and convertibles filled with blushing lassies, each carrying a banner of her favorite candidate. The week of elections has arrived. The various sororities, fraternities, and independents divide themselves into two major parties. These little Republicans and Democrats call themselves the All-Maryland and the Old-Line Liberal Parties. Each one nominates candidates for the various SGA and class offices; the candidates get their petitions signed, and then the speeches begin.

The week before the general election there is a primary election to eliminate the office-holder aspirants to two for each office. The following Wednesday all politically inclined cut their classes to stand outside the polls, distributing match boxes, football schedules, sample ballots, and influencing the voters as best they can from behind the white line. In the wee small hours that night, the votes are tallied. The littered campus is cleared up, and a new group of administrators moves into the SGA office.

SGA prexy, Rubenstein, is congratulated by opponent.

SPRING ELECTIONS

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Stan Rubenstein heads the Council as SGA president.

In the Rec Hall every Tuesday evening seventeen people gather to discuss the plans and projects of the student body. This group is the Student Government Association, the student elected organization which serves as a link between the students and the administration. The council of the SGA is composed of men and women, independents and fraternity members alike. It is truly a student organization, its meetings being open at all times to all students. The SGA plans such outstanding events as Homecoming and Freshman Orientation. Such other campus events as class dances and projects are also planned by the SGA. This year the SGA has been extremely busy carrying out its regular schedule as well as trying to have a Phi Beta Kappa Chapter installed on this campus. The Student Government Association has been capably guided by Stan Rubenstein, the prexy for the fall semester, and by Ronnie Pierce, who took over when Stan graduated in February.

The Tuesday evening sessions of the SGA are merely the external evidence of what has been going on behind the scenes. At these meetings the heads of the various committees report on what has been happening within their individual committees. The SGA is a miniature Congress, the separate Committees working out their compromises and then bringing the results before the whole council for final approval.

At the beginning of every year the administration appropriates to the SGA a sum of money which they in turn issue to the various classes, organizations, and publications. Petitions for additional sums and general expenditures are taken care of through the Ways and Means Committee. The Student Union Committee has been attempting to raise funds for the future Student Union Building. There is a Press Relations Committee which handles all publicity. These and many other committees compose the efficient and smoothly running organization that is the Student Government Association.

ALMA LEE GROSS, led the women students this year.

Women's League is the organization of which every Maryland Co-ed is a member. Functioning as the governing body of this organization are the Executive Council — guiding the activities of the League, the Legislative Council — formulating and revising rules regarding women students, and the Judicial Board — reviewing more serious infractions of University rules. Women's League represented in this way works toward the best standards of government for women students, basing its activity on experience and growing need as the University progresses.

In addition to their governing duties, Women's League this year has set up an Academic Board which is investigating the possibility of bringing Phi Beta Kappa to this Campus, increasing the prestige of the University. Women's League also took an active part in promoting current events forums and in fostering a closer working group of sorority and dormitory representatives and house mothers.

The Men's League functions as a representative body for the men on the campus—an organization designed to aid in campus improvements and as a disciplinary board. The officers, who are elected in the Spring by the male students, work closely throughout the year with the Dean of Men in planning and administering regulations governing men students. The League consists of two divisions—the Executive Council and the Dormitory Council, the latter serving as a disciplinary board enforcing dormitory and campus rules.

Along with its role as a regulator of dormitory life, the Men's League worked with various projects such as Freshman Orientation and the Campus Chest Drive. Current events programs were also held.

Again this year, the League awarded a bronze cup to the most outstanding graduating senior, and also presented certificates of merit to deserving male students.

senior class

Although the class of '53 is small in numbers, it is far from lacking in initiative, as the class has done much toward the building of the University in its four year stay beginning in September 1919.

Led by President Don Erlbeck, the seniors went all out on Senior Week. This festive week included a Dinner-Dance at the Shoreham which featured two name bands; a most enjoyable all-day picnic; and a sadistic Blue Book Burning Dance.

An important event for every senior is commencement day in June when at last he receives that long-awaited diploma.

Junior Class officers and Student Government Association notables led the salute to Miss Maryland of 1952.

junior class

The big event for the Junior Class was, of course, the long awaited Promenade. Jeanine Eberts and Gloria Wallerstein were selected as co-chairmen.

With the approach of spring the traditional festival—May Day—was brought to mind. This old campus custom, at which coed members of the Junior Class were tapped for Mortar Board, is always a responsibility of the Junior Class. At this time the juniors also crowned the outstanding senior girl May Queen.

soph class

Having a year of college safely behind them, the Sophomore Class welcomed the new freshmen with a large scale Freshman Orientation Week. The program included many dances, tours, and forums regarding campus life and activities. The highlight of the year was of course the Sophomore Prom, and the crowning of the Queen.

The class did a great deal in supporting and actively participating in all campus affairs.

Once upon a time in the rush between classes a small group of people were pushed rudely into four small rooms in the back of the Rec. Hall. There, in a heap of old waste-baskets and coke bottles, the major University of Maryland student publications were born. Ever since these pre-Atomic days, all sorts of literary excavations have taken place.

This year, however, witnessed more than just literary excavations. The Terrapin, Diamondback,

Old Line, and M Book, now being of age were transferred into a home of their own—GG5. Now with plenty of space, paper, and people, you might think that our troubles were over. But alas, instead of being over, they just began. You see, all of our editors starved to death—no longer could they walk four steps and get a chocolate sundae before they settled down to work—they just had to settle down.

photographers at work

Hidden in the basement of the Administration building, one will find the student photo laboratory. Here was the stamping ground for all the photographers. They worked continuously to take, develop, and enlarge the 5000 pictures required by the Diamondback, Old Line, Terrapin, and M Book.

Pictures were scheduled for the Terrapin by each section editor under the direction of the photographers; and each shared in the headaches of missed appointments, defective equipment, and temperamental subjects. After the pictures were taken, the darkroom process began—mixing chemicals, developing negatives, making enlargements.

Finally, the prints were developed, and the sorting out process began. Much heated discussion took place and at last the "right" pictures were chosen. Although many feel that the pictures did not do them justice—the photographers' work was done.

publications board

The great responsibility of advising and directing the student publications of the University falls on the shoulders of the Publications Board. The Board is appointed by President Byrd and this year included Prof. Alfred Crowell as chairman, assisted by Mr. William Hottel, Prof. James Reid, and Prof. Donald Krimek. The individual publications were represented by their respective editors: Diamondback, Doris Retzker; Terrapin, Don Erlbeck; Old Line, Lorraine Jorgensen. The publications honorary and the Student Government Association were represented by Paul De Monterice and Stan Rubenstein.

The Board meets periodically during the school year to discuss informally the problem of student appointments to responsible positions on the various publications. They also formulate the policy of the newspaper, magazine, and yearbook, which in turn reflects the policy of the University itself. Frequently, the above statement is not understood by the students and it is necessary for the Board to clarify its actions. But when all the battle smoke has cleared, one will always find that the Board has perfectly backed-up its decisions.

FERRAPIN STAFF. The staff decided to take a few minutes off late one Friday afternoon. We had no more than put our work aside, when Don grabbed a photographer, hurried us out back, and took this outdoor shot. In the first row we find Pat Wiese and Jane Cahill; in the second row: Ronnie Pierce, Bunny Ogburn, and Mel Roche; in the third row: Bette Rossmann, Gene Kibbe, Doug Hauser, and Don Fritbeck; in the fourth row: Ginny Cough, Ned France, and Bill Holland.

Our moment of so-called relaxation was over; the picture had been taken, and we returned to the office and set out with renewed vigor upon the task of completing the 1953 Ferrapin.

▷ DON ERLBECK, Editor-in-Chief of the 1953 Terrapin, started work early in June to complete the book. He was not completely at ease till the book was finished in April.

DOUG HAUSLER, Business Manager for the book, had perhaps the hardest job of all—that of collecting money. But persistence won out and bills were paid. ▽

In recording the year's activities at the University of Maryland, the Terrapin has lacked nothing in potential material. Everyday some new and unusual event was taking place. We have tried to portray these events and changes as they affected the different branches of student life.

Although all yearbooks must contain essentially the same material, it is the hope of each editor and staff to produce a book as different as possible from any previously published. This year there can be no doubt in anyone's mind about the book being different—it is not only different, but it is also unique. It is a product of genius, sometimes mad, sometimes misguided, but nevertheless, genius. The Terrapin has gone modern in every sense of the word—layout, type, copy, and photography. The photography is especially good—seldom will you see the conventional group shot; at last an informal picture has become what the name implies.

Most of these changes can be attributed to the former sundae-eating champion of the Publications building, Don Erlbeck, who sustained this furious inner battle and is now salesmanager for Ry-Crisp.

the staff . . .

Amid smiles, conversations, phone calls, typing, cigarettes, and thinking a book is born. Then it is sent to the printer for its first few weeks of life. The staff can now relax; and take a few minutes off to do a little back homework. Just as things look promising the year is over.

Bigger and better facilities marked the year for the Diamondback. The change in printers, a new engraving process, plus new quarters all added up to give the staff the best to work with.

The editors and the staff retained the position of the Diamondback as an independent news organization on the campus. Student activities were given more publicity than ever before—covered for their news value and not as an obligation.

Under the leadership of Doris Retzker, the paper's editorial policy remained constructive and critical; its features were sparked by the wit and humor of "A Line by Lake"; its news policy was as truthful as the staff could make it; its sports department capably covered major and minor athletic events. Thus at the end of this year the Diamondback again well filled its job on campus.

DORIS RETZKER, Editor-in-Chief of this year's Diamondback, had a big job on her hands—especially big, for a girl. One glance, however, shows she did it.

It may look like a lot of people—but with two issues, all have jobs.

△ RALPH MAGEE, Managing Editor of the 1952-53 Diamondback, was kept quite occupied handling the business side of the paper- he is now a jack of all trades.

Believing that a newspaper has other functions besides printing professional press releases for campus functions, the issues of this years Diamondback tried to mirror the life that went on about it. In a campus sometimes stormy with politics, the paper tried to maintain a policy of telling its readers the facts and not shielding the truth in subterfuge. Down the line the staff performances were faithful: Joyce Pocklington fighting an eternal battle to keep the editors within their budget; Craig Fisher peddling advertising to fatten the coffers; and Elin Lake and Jim Coyne stirring with their columns the wrath of the powers that be.

Differences arose; the Diamondback maintained its position; the editors learned by experience; the workings of the staff were smoothed out, and suddenly another year had passed.

JOYCE POCKLINGTON, Managing Editor of the Friday edition of the Diamondback found herself writing everything from sports copy to features and drama.

the friday issue . . .

The Friday Staff gathers in the debris after they have at last put the paper "to bed". The empty coke bottles, the filled ashtrays, and the reams of crumpled paper give evidence to the hectic hours past.

△ LORRAINE JORGENSEN, Editor of this year's Old Line, was another girl with a big job - she came through with flying colors and some excellent issues.

Taking just a silent glance at the Old Line staff gives one only a small part of the complete picture. But read on and you will discover much.

the old line

The Old Line, addicted to passing deadlines, printing old and new jokes, chiding the Diamond-back for its errors, and cluttering up the Post Office with a magazine at different times each academic year, considers itself (and rightly so) the literary and humorous student publication at Maryland U.

One of the most interesting and unusual issues was the parody on Quick Magazine which appeared early in 1952 and received plaudits from all who read it. Although the style and make-up of the Old Line changes—the staff never does. The gales of laughter emanating from the office each day were proof that this year as always the Old Line staff considers itself most witty and clever.

The conscientious driving of Editor, Lorraine Jorgensen backed up by the cartoons and covers of Morris Lebowitz with the photography of Jim Hansen and Bruce Palmer gave the magazine that special touch that enlivened the year's routine and kept the Old Line at the top of the college field.

A typical scene of activity to be found most every night before a new edition of the magazine goes to press.

JEONNINE EBERTS, Circulation Manager, and BOB McNALLY, Assistant Ed, take time out to enjoy life. ▽

The Maryland Old Line has managed to laugh its way through the '52-'53 season as a campus tradition. It followed through in its task of not only being an educational alleviate, but also it proved to be a forceful means of satire.

The first issue was dedicated to the upper classmen through sheer pity for them in the neglect they usually receive from the first publications in the fall term, others being dedicated to freshmen.

The November issue carried Maryland's answer to Esquire's feature "Clothes for the College Man", along with several excellent short stories.

Holiday greetings were found in the Christmas issue, plus a football story with a Pogo twist.

The second semester brought an equally good magazine with the dividend of the Parody Issue.

the M book

a summer's work

The editors and staff of the 1956 M Book began work early in May with total reorganization, complete coverage, and artistic presentation as prime considerations.

This year's Freshman Bible, with several innovations and many departures from precedent in its staff, style, and make-up, presented the incoming Freshmen with 173 pages of pertinent information, clever cartoons, and pictures of campus buildings and activities.

The house lights are slowly dimming, and the audience is settling for a new season of University Theater drama. Backstage, all is bedlam with last minute preparations as the signal to raise the curtain is given. Suddenly, one of the stage crew realizes there is a prop missing from the setting. There is hurried consultation among the stage manager and the director. The decision is made. The missing prop must be placed on stage! The stage manager looks for a victim, spots him, and gives him his assignment.

Meanwhile, the audience is "taking in" the setting. A Hand appears from between the folds of the backdrop and places the forgotten lamp on the table.

university theater

University Theater is a group of students with acting fever. They take on the responsibility for the production of all major dramatic presentations here at Maryland. And what headaches are involved! UT taps campus opinion to determine what plays shall be presented to Maryland students. This past year Marylanders saw "Ghosts," "Ah Wilderness," "Rope," "You Can't Take It With You," "Candida," and "Romeo and Juliet." This year, UT also successfully collaborated with Clef and Key to produce the musical comedy "A Connecticut Yankee."

It has been a policy of UT to welcome and encourage new talent. University Theater membership comes to those students who have proved their interest in the theater through their work on previous productions. Their efforts gave Maryland another excellent season in dramatics.

GHOSTS

Henrik Ibsen's "Ghosts" was the first centrally-staged University Theater production in the Spring. "Ghosts" was a psychological drama of the family, and how it can imprison and penalize the children. This production was the first controversial play of this type to appear on the UT stage. The problem is timeless and universal in its appeal, and as such was well received by the audience.

The hypocritical pastor, Fred Dallam, and the mother, Clarita Watkins, tried unsuccessfully to help the emotional Oswald, Peter Campanelli. The set, lighting, and sound effects contributed to the earnestness and intensity of the drama. The audience left the production in a thoughtful mood.

Looking at the murder weapon, the murderer's face reflects memory of crime he has committed.

ROPE

Suspense and mystery characterized University Theater's production of "Rope." The plotting of the perfect crime was done on the central stage, and done very well. Richard Rymland and his companion in crime are unsuccessful in their attempt to hide the evidence in the trunk. The instrument of the crime, the rope, holds a repulsion for the boys, and their faces reflect the enormity of the situation. These were the highlights of "Rope."

"Rope" showed the growing experience in central staging by a more polished presentation. The popularity of theater-in-the-round is steadily increasing, and more and more dramas are being proved adaptable to this manner of production. "Rope" is a good example of the adaptability and popularity of this form of the drama.

The lovers, Richard and Muriel, lost in their dreams, think of what the future holds in store.

Seductive Belle tries to use her charms on a very reluctant Richard.

In our town everyone has to go for the Sunday drive.

While uncle does his best to plead a losing case for the erring son, the rest of the family show their mixed emotions.

AH WILDERNESS!

The youngest son has growing pains, and his family isn't very helpful. So it goes in Eugene O'Neill's tragi-comedy "Ah Wilderness!" Richard Miller, Bob Zelko, tried to convince his family that he is truly in love with Muriel McComber, Mary Beth Gokey. His family smiled in condescension and older brother Arthur, Craig Fisher, attempted to teach Richard the ways of life.

Richard decided to find out for himself, and he ended up in a ludicrous situation in the local saloon. Uncle Sid Davis offered the only consolation. Ed Call as Davis gave a convincing performance of a reprobate who reforms. Clarita Watkins and Mike McKay as the long-suffering parents smiled their way through Richard's antics as if to say, "This younger generation!"

This production was a comic comment on youth and life.

Bartender heaves Richard out, Belle and Salesman laugh.

Proper grasp of the situation such as a leg twist is always a good argument, as Boris proves to Mr. Kirbe in this scene.

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU

A delightful comedy of errors was what University Theater gave us in "You Can't Take It With You" by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. The vague and empty-headed Mrs. Sycamore and her heterogeneous collection of family and friends provided the audience with a good many laughs.

Alice and Tony had numerous difficulties thrown in the way of their love affair. And then there was Grandpa. Grandpa had been evading the issue of income taxes for goodness only knows how many years, but he managed to give out with several pearls of wisdom during the evening. Oh yes, the internal revenue department did catch up with him.

Carl Friedler's portrayal of the Russian was a masterpiece and Elizabeth Spurr's inebriated actress nearly stole the show. Although Tony and Alice had enough problems to stymie a general, they came through in true fashion and all was rosy in the end. Even the inevitable and disastrous meeting of Tony's social register family and Alice's Greenwich Village one was set straight.

The choice of "You Can't Take It With You" to open the fall dramatics season was a good one, and the laughs lingered on.

A gay, but recumbent Gay shows off her theatrical ability to the rest of the family, but no one seems to appreciate it.

TOP: Henderson tears his hair as Essie protects her husband while grandfather watches with interest.

MIDDLE: Bedlam ensues as the Kirbys arrive unexpectedly for dinner at the Sycamores'.

BOTTOM: Penelope Sycamore interrupts her daughter saying good-night to Tony.

ROMEO AND JULIET

Romeo and Juliet gaze into each others eyes as lovers have done for centuries.

"Behold, it is the east and Juliet is the sun." These were the words heard on the University Theater stage as the classic romance of "Romeo and Juliet" was reenacted. The age-old conflict between the Montagues and the Capulets was a fitting close to the fall drama season.

The epitome of all lovers went through their paces for an appreciative audience as medieval Italy came to life again here at Maryland. Romeo, James Radomski, tried to mend the breach between the two families and win his fair Juliet, Delores Alnise, but to no avail. Romeo's impetuousness causes him to lose the thing he holds most dear. He dies, and Juliet dies with him.

The magnificent settings and costumes added greatly to this play, as did the very convincing sword play. In true Shakespearian fashion, the dead and dying littered the stage in the final scene.

University Theater had done it again! Another success was added to their impressive list.

TOP: Juliet weeps as she looks at Romeo for the last time.

MIDDLE: The hand of death descends upon the duelists.

LEFT: A sharp mind is needed to parry a jester's barbs.

RIGHT: Pretty faces always tend to lighten the tragic plot.

The young poet Marchbank, pleads his case to a sympathetic Candida, who listens attentively before she rejects him.

Reverend Morrell's thought of marriage shocks a spinster.

CANDIDA

George Bernard Shaw's "Candida" climaxed last year's program of centrally staged dramas. This drama of a young poet in love with a woman approaching middle age was well received by Marylanders.

Candida's husband, Reverend Morrell, brought the young poet to live with his family when he was disowned by his father. When Marchbank fell in love with Candida, Reverend Morrell was so doubtful of his own position in Candida's affections that he believed his wife capable of falling in love with Marchbank. Candida rejected the poet's proffer of love, and made her husband more secure by her love for him.

Pat Kirkpatrick's first leading role was presented in an excellent manner in her portrayal of Candida. The characterizations of Reverend Morrell and the secretary were also well done.

CHAPEL CHOIR

“The Lord Bless You and Keep You”

The newest musical organization on campus is the University Chapel Choir. Under the direction of Fague Springmann, the Choir has been responsible for the music at the Sunday Vesper services. The Choir also presented “The Messiah” with an accompanying orchestra and professional soloists. This performance marked the first time that “The Messiah” had been sung in the University Chapel.

“Music is a way of life,” and the Choir members must certainly love their life to devote the time that they do to making this group one of our best publicity agents to the outside world. Singing predominately sacred music, the Choir presented many programs throughout the year, including a special Easter and Memorial Day service. So hats off, as a salute to the University Chapel Choir’s first year.

WOMEN'S CHORUS

"A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody"

Have you men living in Calvert or Dorm O ever wondered at the sudden influx of women into that little two by four brick structure in the Gulch on Tuesdays and Thursdays? Well, wonder no more! Those young ladies are members of the Women's Chorus going to rehearsal in the Music Building.

The Women's Chorus celebrated its nineteenth anniversary this year by being better than ever.

Concerts, concerts, and more concerts was the rule of the day. Many of these concerts were on campus for outside organizations, as the Democratic Women, the Dairymen's Association, and others. Highlight of the "away" trips was the day spent at Annapolis entertaining the Midshipmen. According to the Chorus, the Mids are a very appreciative audience!

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

"Sing ye sinners, Sing!"

"Now men, this is a fine showing, but we need more tenors. Go out and find me some tenors!" These words of Dr. Romaine must have inspired the Men's Glee Club to great things, because they did find those tenors and organized them into a singing group that shows signs of returning to its former glory. The wonderful four-day concert tour to Buffalo, New York, to sing the "Testament of Freedom" with the Buffalo Symphony Orchestra was evidence of the Glee Club's ability.

The Glee Club also represented the University at off-campus functions in Baltimore, Fort Meade, and Thurmount. Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner concerts were also on the year's itinerary. Instigated this year was the Christmas pageant in the Chapel for which the Glee Club combined with the Women's Chorus to provide the music. Maryland can well be proud of her singing men.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND BAND

"And the drums go bang, and the cymbals clang," and you know the University of Maryland Band is marching once again. Whether it be at half-time or in the concert hall, the Maryland Band proved its superiority time and again last year. Even opponents on the football field conceded that the Red and White Band is tops.

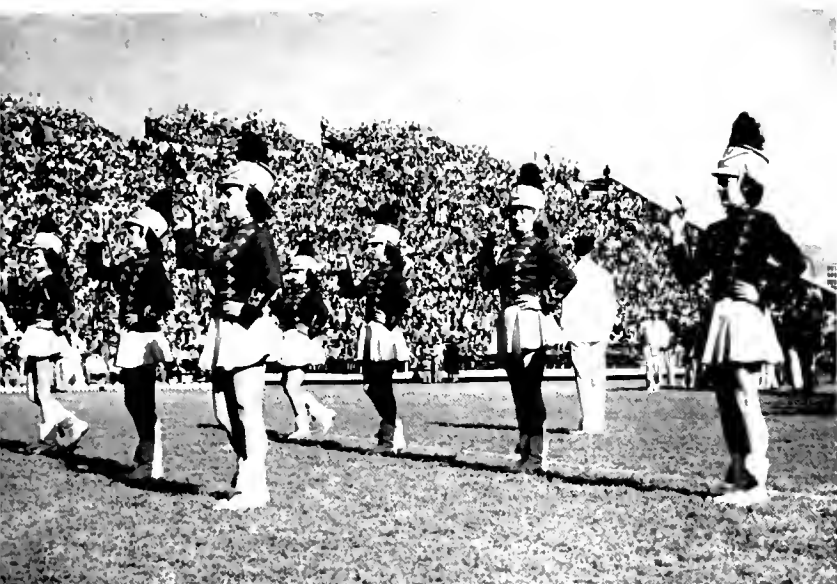

Maryland's band put on some excellent half-time shows with its intricate field formations of hearts, shields, and firecrackers, as well as salutes to Clemson, Louisiana State, and Boston. The "football weekend" saw the Band and Majorettes go to Boston with the team where they put on a show the likes of which old Beantown had never seen.

On the concert side, the Band gave concerts at high schools in Cumberland, Frederick, and Luke. Especially remembered from this tour was the playing of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" with Joyce Ames as Piano soloist.

All in all, it was a good year, but Bill Fisk, President, along with all of the other graduating band members will be missed greatly next year.

CREATIVE DANCE

Leotards and entrechats are the passwords for entry into the Dance Studio where the Creative Dance group rehearses. This past year, the Dance Club represented the University at several off-campus master dance lessons and demonstrations. Recitals at near-by high schools and participation in the performance of "A Connecticut Yankee" were also part of the year's schedule. Highlights of the year were the Spring Dance Concert and May Day. Modern Dance is taking its place at Maryland in its important role as an art.

hasty heart special tour by UT

"The Hasty Heart", a comedy-drama by John Patrick, opened for a five-day run on campus in March followed by a tour through Baltimore and Salisbury. It was a production named as outstanding by all who saw it. James Radomski played the lead as Lachie, a Scottish soldier, with Rhea Mermelstein who portrayed Sister Margaret, a British nurse.

Lachie, who is confined to a hospital near a jungle close to the Burma front, shares quarters with an Aussie, John Powell; a Yank, Jerry Gough; an Englishman, John Yeabower; a New Zealander, Parker Fairlamb; and an African, Donald Peacock.

honors

professional

There are a number of students at Maryland who, by initiative, drive and hard work, are able to collect a few honors before they graduate by excelling in one or more phases of campus activities. Some students specialize in one field while others branch out in several activities thus gaining a well rounded experience.

Throughout the four years of college various occasions arise when those students that are deserving of special recognition for the work they've accomplished are honored. They might receive a key, a pin or a certificate or be tapped for membership in an honorary organization. They do not regard these honors as rewards, however, but as tokens of their endeavor.

Book learning is not the only phase of college life; we admire those who recognize this fact and take advantage of the vast number of opportunities available on campus for extra-curricular activities.

mortar board

Mortar Board is the national senior honor society for women. Juniors who have maintained a 2.7 average during their first two and a half years on campus and have fulfilled requirements of leadership and service are eligible for membership. Tapping takes place on May Day.

The activities of Mortar Board are many and diverse. This year there was a Section Conference for the seven chapters of Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. The members sold "mums" for Homecoming, and there was an annual party given for women students with high grades.

arnold air society

Advanced students in the AFROTC and the candidates for advanced training are members of the Arnold Air Society, for the purpose of this honorary is to promote the AFROTC program among the men on campus. The members are chosen for their display of interest in the Air Force and for their leadership qualities. Each year the Society sponsors a Thanksgiving dinner as a harvest treat for a needy family, have a clothing drive for orphans in Korea, sponsor drill programs, and are co-sponsors of the Military Ball with Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade.

alpha lambda delta

The main objective of Alpha Lambda Delta is to encourage high scholarship; in fact, to do this even more, letters are being sent to all freshmen girls to make them work at their studies to achieve the 3.5 average needed in order to become a member. This average must be for a semester or for a year. This honorary performed many useful functions on campus this year: they had a tea for the members of the freshman class who graduated in the upper ten percent of their high school class, performed a skit in every dormitory, and ushered at Romeo and Juliet.

alpha kappa delta

To be a member of Alpha Kappa Delta, Sociology honorary, a 3.0 overall average or better is necessary. One must also major in Sociology to obtain membership, the purpose of this honorary being the furtherance of knowledge and research in the field of Sociology. The two yearly initiation banquets are held in February and in June. The group promotes friendly relations between its members and among the many branches of Sociology. This National honorary fraternity was founded in 1946 on the Maryland campus. This year Dr. Lejins was faculty advisor.

Pilos P. Lejins, Faculty Advisor; Ruth Anne Zinder, President; Janice S. Millstein, Vice President.

alpha zeta

Alpha Zeta is the honorary for undergraduates in the College of Agriculture who are in the upper two-fifths of their college, and who have shown leadership, character, and scholastic attainment in their agricultural endeavors. The honorary hopes to develop these characteristics still further, and their future plans include aid in furthering freshman scholarship so that all freshmen can try to be an active member of the group. There are also various social functions throughout the year for the enjoyment of the members, and service functions are presented frequently.

beta alpha psi

Outstanding accounting students compose Beta Alpha Psi. The members are required to write a research paper on some pertinent phase of accounting, and must pass an entrance examination. At their meetings the members hear speakers who are experts in their field and who instruct the students on various aspects of professional accounting. One of the primary activities of the honorary is the raising of the professional standards of the student accountants who wish to make accounting their career; another aim is the tutoring of students in basic accounting by the members.

gamma beta

The purpose of Gamma Beta is to honor the outstanding members of the University band and to work for the improvement of the band. By doing their work well this year, the members are hoping to obtain membership in Kappa Kappa Psi, the national honorary band fraternity. Gamma Beta acts as an advisory board for the others in the band and will guide all in improvement so that Maryland can have the best band in the land. Each year high school bands from this area converge upon the campus to add color and music to the football season—Gamma Beta sponsors them.

gate and key

The purpose of Gate and Key, National Honorary Fraternity, is to recognize and bring together outstanding fraternity men on campus. It also promotes better understanding between the University and the Fraternity System. Prospective members are tapped in the Fall and Spring. Only Juniors and Seniors are considered for membership. Meetings are held on a bi-monthly basis. This year an award was given at homecoming to the outstanding football player of the year. Gate and Key was founded three years ago on the Maryland Campus.

latch key

The Latch Key Society is an honorary organization to which all managers and assistant managers of varsity athletics are invited to join. Its two main objects are to assist each of the sports in securing capable managers and keep students interested in being a manager. In the fall, they have a smoker, to which are invited all students interested in managing teams and all team coaches. In the Spring a banquet is held for all members. In the future they hope to find a workable plan for the Latch Key to assist in meeting visiting teams and also work in closer unison with "M" Club.

national collegiate players

The National Collegiate Players work towards individual recognition in the field of the Theater. Their goal is to obtain personal satisfaction and public acknowledgment. To be a member of this honorary society, one must have a two point average and must be top notch, not in one, but in many phases of the theater. This group specializes in the active theater to acquire experience, and again, individual recognition. They hold two initiations a year; one in January and one in May. When they are not participating in acting they listen to speakers on drama.

omicron nu

Omicron Nu, the honorary Home Economics Society of Maryland University, strives to further scholarship, leadership and research in the field of Home Economics. During the year they include in their many activities the selling of home baked fruit cakes at Christmas time, the annual Spring and Fall teas for prospective new members, and listening to various speakers on Research in Home Economics. Another big annual function is the Spring banquet following the initiation of new members, who have been selected for their high scholastic averages.

pershing rifles

To develop precision in drill, better understanding of the military, and initiative and leadership in the AFROTC are the purposes of the Pershing Rifles. The group provides colors for various official University functions as well as an honor guard. They escort the Governor on Military Day, provide exhibitions of trick drill, and co-sponsor the Military Ball with Arnold Air Society and Scabbard and Blade. The Pershing Rifles is the only military society for basic AFROTC students. They want to participate in drill and rifle competition with other colleges.

phi alpha epsilon

The Physical Education honorary on campus is Phi Alpha Epsilon; the main purpose of this organization is the achievement of philosophy and growth in the chosen field of its members. The meetings are held once a week on alternate Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Outstanding speakers in the field of health, recreation, physical therapy, and physical education are sponsored, and a reward is given by the group for scholastic achievement in the field of physical education. In the future the honorary hopes to extend its activities on campus.

phi alpha theta

Phi Alpha Theta, a national history organization honoring students who have done outstanding work in history, has had a very active year on the Maryland campus. During its monthly meetings Beta Omega Chapter has had an exceptional parade of speakers, among them the head of the Archives in Washington. Phi Alpha Theta held its bi-annual convention in Porto Rica during the 1952 Christmas vacation. Dr. Bauer, the group's faculty advisor, and Paul Richmond, its treasurer, spent five delightful days at convention in the Caribbean meeting and exchanging ideas with members from the other hundred and fourteen chapters in the country.

phi eta sigma

To further scholastic abilities and achievements of freshmen, and to encourage freshmen to improve and progress in future years is the noble purpose of Phi Eta Sigma, the freshmen honorary society. The gold key signifies membership, which is obtained by achieving a 3.0 average or better during the first year of college. They hold two meetings and two initiations a year, the four of which coincide. A banquet is given after the initiations in the Spring during which a guest speaker is featured. Also in the Spring the election for new officers is held.

pi delta epsilon

The national journalism honorary for the outstanding journalism students is Pi Delta Epsilon. The members are those students who have given to the campus four semesters of outstanding service in one of the publications of the University, or those who have served in a major position on a publication for two semesters. Each year Pi Delt gives the Publications Banquet, at which time the freshman who has contributed the most to the publications is presented with a trophy. The honorary sponsors many parties throughout the year in addition to the Banquet.

scabbard and blade

The Scabbard and Blade is the highest military honorary on campus, made up of members selected for their outstanding leadership, efficiency, good fellowship and loyalty. Their purpose is to further the military department and military activities on campus. The highlights of the year include the laying of the wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the annual Military Ball, and the drill program for the choosing of next years officers. This year they worked with the chapter of Scabbard and Blade at Hopkins to formulate plans for the annual convention.

tau beta pi

The National Honorary Engineering Fraternity at the University of Maryland is Tau Beta Pi. Its purpose is to bestow honor on the outstanding engineers on campus, those engineers who render service to underclassmen and the engineering profession, and who are active in campus activities.

Prominent speakers are brought before the group to discuss the possibilities in the field of engineering. There are two initiation banquets each year, and the group sponsors beneficial projects. In the future the honorary will encourage engineering students even more.

upsilon upsilon

The purpose of Upsilon Upsilon is to unite the outstanding girls in the band and the majorettes into a unit, to promote interest in their musical organization, and to provide a social sorority for all band members. In the future the local honorary hopes to become a part of the national Tau Beta Sigma in order to help expand their activities.

The activities of the group include parties for the band members such as bowling parties, and parties on trips, making cookies for the Football Weekend, and working out routines for show steps. The outcome is good entertainment.

phi delta kappa

Phi Delta Kappa, the honorary education fraternity at the University of Maryland, holds three ideals on which they are founded. These three are: research, leadership, and service in the field of education. They strive to promote free public education on a national scale. They meet every month when they discuss a certain theme they have chosen pertaining to the Education Department. This year the theme was, "What others would have us do". Speakers this year have included Commissioner Donahue and Judge Noyes, along with various clergymen.

sigma alpha omicron

The aim of Sigma Alpha Omicron, the honorary for bacteriological students, is to become a national fraternity and to be sponsored by the Society of American Bacteriologists. The promotion of interest in bacteriology and the betterment of social relations between the students and the faculty in the Department is their objective. The group has a speaker and movies once a month, open houses for all bacteriology majors, an annual picnic for the members, and discussions on the various aspects of their work. High scholastic standing is one of the main requirements.

aqualiners

Maryland coeds have turned mermaid! Come down to the pool on Tuesday evenings and you will find many coeds practicing and learning new skills of synchronized swimming. The constant effort and practice of the girls was revealed in the demonstrations and the annual Water Show that the club presented in the spring. The club, although it was new this year, had forty members. The aim for next year is to get even more members and to foster a much greater understanding and interest in synchronized swimming. Eventually, the group hopes to create a swimming honorary.

gymkana

Have you ever done twenty consecutive back flips? Here's your chance! Gymkana offers many activities from aerobatics to magic for its members. Performers take their shows to nearby Military Bases and schools throughout this area. Members spent the winter preparing for their second annual trip to Air Force bases throughout the United States. "Destination Alaska" was ringing in the ears of club members as they tumbled across the mats or bounced on the trampoline at their weekly Wednesday practice sessions in the Old Gym. What ever your talent, Gymkana will make you a trouper.

riding club

"Get a horse" is a familiar cry. That is just what members of the Riding Club do! The members are always getting horses and going somewhere. During the year semi-monthly rides and wienie roasts were held, while hunts and breakfasts, and the Hunt Ball were presented. The club went on field trips to famous horse farms and traveled to the National Horse Show. Riding Club members hardly stopped long enough to hear outstanding speakers in the field of horsemanship. A major function of the group was their Annual Spring Horse Show which exhibited fine horsemanship.

sailing club

"Quick, make tact," calls the skipper of the Maryland crew as the wind on the Chesapeake suddenly changes! The skill of maneuvering a sailing craft can be learned and applied by the members of the Maryland Sailing Club. Weekly Tuesday meetings are held to instruct new members and to plan intercollegiate regattas and social activities. The members apply their skills of handling a sailboat in the Intercollegiate Regatta held at Annapolis and at Buzzard's Point in Washington, D. C. Maryland's club along with George Washington's group again sponsored the "Frost Bite Regatta".

alpha phi omega

A friend in need is a friend in deed! Such are the members of Alpha Phi Omega. This national service fraternity has done much on campus this year to be of service to students. Members are former boy scouts who, true to their motto, serve others. Students recall the used-book store run by members of A.P.O. The "rides-home" booth at Christmas and other holidays was another project of the fraternity. Alpha Phi Omega had social functions and activities throughout the year and held "rush" period as do the social fraternities, but it is best known for its service to the campus.

Surely you won't miss one pint of blood! The Maryland students seemed to agree with the American Red Cross when they helped in the fall drive for blood. The whole quota of 264 pints of blood was filled by student and faculty pledges long before the drive began. The constant effort of Red Cross members made the successful drive possible. These coeds gathered hostesses to visit nearby military hospitals to entertain patients. University women will remember the visits they made to cheer the wounded service men. The group also collected donations to aid their National Unit.

daydodgers' club

Members of the Daydodgers' Club rush to the Rec Hall every Monday at four for their weekly meeting. The club's main purpose is obtaining rides to school for off-campus students. This "sharing a ride" idea has helped many off-campus students make those dreaded eight o'clocks on time. Picnics, howling and skating parties which provided fun for all were held throughout the year. Their year began with the annual Autumn Barn Dance and was highlighted by the annual Daydodgers' Hop which featured the crowning of Miss Heart Throb of 1953.

independent student association

Hey Independents! Here's your chance to join in the fun and social life on campus; there is no need to be left out of any activity at Maryland. . . join the I.S.A. The members represent the club in campus functions and have many social functions within the club. Remember the Autumn Hop sponsored by the I.S.A.? Members won't forget the Christmas party for needy children, and the time spent working on Homecoming, Dads' Day, and the Senior week projects. I.S.A. sponsored forums held in the Rec Hall which added to the cultural life on campus. You needn't go Greek to have fun!

agriculture economics club

To promote an understanding of agriculture economics through faculty-student relations and outside speakers is the purpose of the Agriculture Economics Club.

Meetings are held twice a month in the Agricultural Conference Room in Symons Hall. A number of men, outstanding in the field, have spoken at several of these meetings. Among the speakers were Dr. Roger Corbett of the Council for Chain Groceries, Roger Fleming of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Dr. J. T. Sanders of the National Grange.

An annual banquet was held at the end of the year as a climax to their busy agenda.

american institute of chemical engineers

For plans ranging from building a bridge to blowing it up, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers has the answers. All future chemical engineers should join this organization for the dissemination of technical knowledge and an association of its student members with professional organization. At their meetings, technical speakers and films are featured throughout the year. In addition to this program, trips are sponsored to industrial plants including American Viscose Corporation in Cumberland and Bethlehem Steel Company in Baltimore.

amer. inst. of elect. engs. and inst. of radio engs.

The time: the first Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m. Place: J Building, Room 8. In progress is the regular meeting of the MEE and IRE, local student chapter of the national organization. Their chief aim is to promote interest in the field of electrical engineering.

To do this, they sponsor speakers, who give technical and entertaining lectures to club members. These lectures stress various applications of electrical engineering. Following these addresses, members discuss the latest developments in this field. MEE and IRE members also go on field trips to related industries, where they see electrical engineering in actual operation.

american marketing club

So you're planning to go into the field of marketing for a career? Then you should join the student chapter of the American Marketing Association, a professional organization in this field. Interested in the practices of various marketing groups and in promoting scientific management in the field, the club is open to marketing majors.

american society of mechanical engineers

Mechanical engineering is only one of the many phases of study in the College of Engineering. Majors in this field have set up an organization to bring themselves in contact with various aspects of their field. This endeavor is accomplished through speakers and instructional films featured at their monthly meetings.

One such speaker, Jerome Jackson, presented the topic "Fundamental aspects of how power is obtained from nuclear energy." Following his address an open discussion period was held.

Future plans of the American Society of Mechanical Engineering include inter-chapter programs with neighboring schools.

block and bridle

The name of this club intimates a dude ranch atmosphere, but the "Block" refers to meat animals, and the "Bridle" to draft horses. This organization offers an interesting and varied program to anyone interested in farm animals, marketing, and allied fields. They sponsor a banquet in honor of the judging teams, a student judging contest, a fitting and showing contest, and the annual spring picnic. For all the men with an eye for something besides horses, the club selects the Agriculture Queen to reign over the Spring Barn Dance and Livestock Show.

agricultural student council

The Agriculture Student Council is the student governing body of the College of Agriculture. The council has jurisdiction over all student organizations set up by the college and over all students in the College of Agriculture. The council also serves as a coordinating group for all student and club activities.

Included in the activities of the Agriculture Student Council are the Fall Square Dance and a spring Agricultural Jamboree and Square Dance. The Council also supervises the preparations for the yearly Agricultural Convocation. Another duty of the group is to administer the Agriculture Student Loan Fund.

This year marks the first time that all clubs under the council have contributed to a unified Agricultural Yearbook, which serves as a introduction to activities of the College of Agriculture.

Dr. Paul E. Nystrom, Director of Instruction in the College of Agriculture, and Dr. Francis Stark serve capably as faculty advisors to the Agriculture Student Council.

business education club

After sweating out that business math all week, you'd think members of this club would rather join a deep-sea diving association. The purpose of the Business Education Club is to promote interest in commercial subjects and allied fields. In addition, business topics are presented at the meetings by speakers in the field, in movies, and discussion programs.

Each year the Business Education Club publishes a club newspaper. All in all, their program augments their classroom training, in which they prepare to teach business.

collegiate 4-h club

Hey, all you farm lads and lasses, let's visit the Collegiate 4-H Club. The purpose of this organization is to present interesting educational and social programs for college students who were 4-H'ers before coming to college.

They sponsor square dances and various other

dairy science club

Maryland coeds only think of how much they like their milkshakes. But members of the Dairy Science Club know the technical secrets behind those milkshakes.

Created to obtain an understanding of production and manufacturing techniques in the dairy industry, the club offers members a preview of their life's work. Their meetings feature speakers of outstanding merit, augmented by programs including technical films and field experience with dairy cattle.

At one session R. E. McDowell of the U. S. Dairy Experimental Farm spoke about synthetic crossbreeding of Jersey cattle.

future farmers of america

So you are going to be a farmer? Then here's the club for you. The meeting place is in the Agriculture Auditorium the second Tuesday night of each month.

The F.F.A. helps the farmer in keeping up with the trends of modern farming. On the farm the F.F.A. shows the farmer the latest new ways of farming. On the campus the F.F.A. helps the prospective teachers of vocational agriculture to become good advisors to local F.F.A. chapters.

Activities of this group include assisting nearby chapters and state F.F.A. officials.

future teachers of america

There aren't many who have the patience, perseverance, or desire to face a class of unruly students staring out windows; but for those who do, the Future Teachers of America is their club. This organization proposes to unite all students of the College of Education and others who are considering teaching as a career. To accomplish this purpose, forums dealing with the latest educational trends are held. Future plans include meetings with other F.T.A. groups, featuring discussion on pertinent information from student teachers about their own problems in teaching.

home economics club

Does a coed majoring in Home Economics always have to cook? Women in the Home Economics Club say that after graduation she can go into countless fields including radio, advertising, journalism, textiles, home demonstration work, or fashion coordination or merchandise.

To aid them in their selection of careers, Maryland graduates often come back to speak to members about their own particular field.

Club members participate in an annual Fashion Show, and have demonstrations on good grooming. A well-known cosmetologist gave two girls new hair styles, while another speaker presented a fashion show of travel outfits at another meeting.

institute of aeronautical science

The basic mission of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences is to facilitate the interchange of technical ideas among aeronautical engineers. Any interested students are invited to join in the programs of this club which deals with the problems of one of the most vital phases of today's living. Speakers and films are presented at the monthly meetings which deal with current and future developments in the aeronautical field. Members encourage non-engineering students to present related ideas to the field and to join in their open discussions at any time, if they are interested.

industrial education association

The Industrial Education Association aims to develop and further the interest among the students in the fields of industrial arts and industry. In addition to sponsoring an Industrial Education Open House, they have a Christmas party for orphans for whom they make toys, an annual picnic, and the presentation of industrial films. At their meetings, professionals in some phase of industrial arts address the club. Plans for the future include the expansion of the organization to include students in the field of "Education for Industry."

institute of food technology

Formed for the purpose of bringing together students in the food field to hear speakers and join in discussions pertaining to their studies, the Institute of Food Technologists is one of the newest organizations on the Maryland campus.

The campus group works in close cooperation with the Baltimore-Washington chapter of the national professional society of the same name.

Among the speakers they have heard this year were outstanding men in the field of food processing and packing who presented information of great value to the club. Some speakers were Dr. Clark from Crosse and Blackwell and Dr. Tressler of the Quartermaster Corps.

national music educators conference

Do . . . re . . . mi . . . fa . . . so . . . la . . . ti . . . do . . . So you wish to become a music teacher? Then join MENC where music majors and minors enjoy varied programs at their monthly meetings. Besides discussing educational methods that will some day be used by public school music teachers, they outline musical curricula that would be suitable for high school and college level.

Members also listen to informal concerts given by other musicians in the group, discuss musical trends of the day or an artist's "stage presence." MENC members intend to further the ideals of the Music Educator's National Conference.

philosophy club

Do you know the difference between right and wrong? If not, join the Philosophy Club. Philosophy is the science which investigates the general facts and principles of reality.

Philosophy club members meet twice a month in the Ree Hall lounge for discussion concerning their major. They have heard Dr. I. E. Geist, a psychotherapist, speak on "Psychoanalysis and Ethics." Dr. Lucius Garvin, head of the Philosophy Department, chose for his topic "How do we know when we are right?" Club members were given an opportunity to present original papers on individual research projects.

A spring picnic featuring a softball game between faculty and graduate students versus undergraduate students climaxed their year's activities.

plant industry

Some people can't even grow ivy. Their plants are in poor soil, lack vital elements and are usually placed where there is insufficient light. The Plant Industry Club, founded to advance interest and knowledge in the fields of Agronomy, Botany, Horticulture and Soils, is interested in problems such as these that confront the amateur.

Club members visited the Plant Industry Station at Beltsville. They heard Dr. Krouse at Maryland speak on "Plant Algae." A movie entitled "Plant Breeding" was shown. Later in the year they sponsored two more speakers. Dr. Magness of the Plant Industry station described his trip to Europe, while Dr. Street selected "Tobacco" for his topic.

press club

Picas . . . grease pencils . . . rules . . . copy paper . . . inches . . . Bodoni Bold and Bodoni Italic . . . these are all the tools of today's modern journalists, the Press Club members.

This group sponsored the first semester "Coffee Hour" to acquaint new students with publications on campus. Club members attended the Sigma Delta Chi forum on election coverage in Washington and a session at the Public Relations Society of America convention.

The Press Club hopes to soon affiliate with Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, and establish a local chapter, Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism group.

propeller club

Those fellows in the Propeller Club are the future business tycoons of America. The members, who are transportation majors, meet semi-monthly to discuss the matters and problems of modern transportation. They bring in guest speakers from national traffic and water associations who help to enlighten them on their field of endeavor. Field trips to transportation centers in this area give members first hand accounts and practical knowledge about the many phases of the large field of transportation. If you're interested in future business you'll learn about it in this club.

society for advancement of management

Have you ever thought of the headaches the manager of a large corporation has? If you have, you probably are not a member of the Society for Advancement of Management; since they learn about the scientific short-cuts in their field.

Their purpose is to bring about a better understanding of the mutual interests of government, management, investments, labor, and the public in improved management. To carry out such a program, members of the group hear speakers and have open forums in their meetings to more fully understand the problems of their chosen career.

sociology club

If you want to understand the mores of our culture, you better join the Sociology Club. Soc majors and minors meet twice a month to discuss these factors of society, hear speakers in the field, and enjoy social gatherings.

Sociological knowledge aids members to suggest remedies for environmental problems after hearing such speakers as H. G. Moeller, the Assistant Director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons and Robert Linder, a clinical psychiatrist, who spoke to them this year. Members shared a joint project dealing with undergraduate student occupations.

ballroom dance club

It's fun to dance when you know how, so learn the easy way—the Ballroom Dance Club way.

It's easy to learn new dance steps at the Tuesday night sessions in the Old Gym, and it's fun to learn them with your friends.

Frank Robson, club prexy, and Nancy Lea Clements were the instructors this year, demonstrating a new step at each session. Following the weekly lesson, members enjoy social dancing before "hitting the books."

A spring dance highlighted the year when a trophy was awarded the most improved dancer. This is an annual custom which was renewed for the first time in several years.

maryland flying club

Tom Corbett's space cadets are in the making at Maryland, since members of the Maryland Flying Club are learning to fly around planet Earth.

The club promotes the study of aviation and the operation of aircraft in a program which leads to acquiring pilots licenses.

The Armory is the scene of mid-week "ground school," when principles of flight and aircraft mechanics are taught by licensed pilots. Weekends are devoted to flying lessons in one of the two club-owned planes. The Maryland Flying Club provides air trips for members and an annual picnic.

W3EAX amateur radio association

Calling CQ, CQ . . . this is W3EAX. Members of the Amateur Radio Association transmit their call to other "ham" stations around the world. Members construct and operate transmitting and receiving equipment, in compliance with FCC regulations.

W3EAX many services include communications coordination on Seniors Day and sending free radiograms for the students.

W3EAX has constructed a new transmitter and improved the antenna system on the Old Gym during the year.

This spring members tried out new battery operated equipment on a camping trip in the Shenendoah mountains. This endeavor climaxed their year's activities.

student activities committee

Come on gang, let's give a big cheer for the team! ". . . Hey, get that white card out of the reds!" . . . "Hey, you Greeks, let's go to the big Pep Rally tonight!" These are familiar cries to all Maryland students—thanks to the efforts of Student Activities Committee.

Their purpose is to promote school spirit through pep rallies, card sections at home games, and meeting the Terrapin Team at the airport after away games. Achievements and innovations this year were the first Noise Rally and new "Script Writing" card tricks at home games.

terrapin trail club

Just because you're in college doesn't say you have to stop outdoor activities—you can join the Terrapin Trail Club.

Hikes and camping trips were enjoyed this year by members in the nearby Blue Ridge Mountains. Jaunts were made to Hermit's Rest, Pine Grove, Old Rag, and Cedarville, where knapsacks were opened, camp was made, and the gang sat round the campfire singing after gorging on Mulligan Stew flavored with wood-smoke! Then many tired but happy hikers hit the sack, before the trip back to the campus.

radio station WMUC

Radio fans on the campus have often heard "Good evening, this is WMUC, the Capital Network Station of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, at 610 on your radio dial."

WMUC offers practical radio experience in announcing, programming, continuity writing, engineering, news casting, and business . . . in a live studio setup, which operates six days a week. News studios are in Building GG, while offices and main studios are in Dormitory F. On the air from 4:30 p.m. until 12:00 midnight, WMUC offers campus news, disc jockey shows, and special event "remote" programs.

This year is the first time that women have worked on the staff of WMUC. In the past years, the station has only maintained one studio in the men's dorms; however, when GG was turned over to the journalism department, a WMUC studio was incorporated in the plans to allow women to gain some practical experience in radio.

Also found in Studio B is a teletype machine and the newsroom. This room was the scene of all-around-the-clock reporting during the national elections.

religious groups

The nine religious groups on the University of Maryland campus have a unified purpose this year. Their purpose is to partake of the benefits of the brotherhood of man in their campus living and to emphasize the importance of religion in education. This program is given great meaning by the chance to worship in the newly dedicated University Memorial Chapel.

baptist student union

Baptist students on the campus learn to relate their college life to their church life under the leadership of the Baptist Student Union.

Each day at noon members gather in Room 251 of the Memorial Chapel to sing hymns, pray, and have a short worship service. Dr. Wayne Oates, assistant professor of pastoral psychology at Southern Baptist Seminary visited one of the BSU sessions where he spoke on "Steps toward Spiritual Maturity."

In the spring a weekend retreat was held at Prince William Forest in Virginia. The Baptist Student Union will also sponsor a mission program in the new chapel.

canterbury club

To deepen and strengthen the spiritual lives of Episcopal students through prayer, worship, fellowship, and service . . . this is the major goal of the Canterbury Club.

On the first Sunday of each month members gathered for Corporate Communion at St. Andrews, followed by breakfast. Weekly Sunday night supper clubs held at the Parish House were also enjoyed by Canterburians. Among the highlights of the year were the inter-racial meeting at Howard University, annual caroling at Glendale Sanitarium, and the fun-filled fall and spring picnics.

Club members plan to help Gallaudet College (for the deaf) organize their own Canterbury Club.

christian science

The Christian Science Organization of the University of Maryland is the non-social group which gathers together for Thursday night testimonial services held in the Chapel Conference room. Their meetings consist of readings from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health" by Mary Baker Eddy.

These meetings correspond to the regular Wednesday evening meetings in Christian Science Churches and are held in accordance with the plan provided in the Manual of the Mother Church in Boston. Students maintain a reading desk in their office where Christian Scientists may read and study in their spare time.

hillel foundation

An understanding and appreciation of Jewish religious and cultural heritage is the chief aim of the Hillel Foundation.

Members traveled to Baltimore the night of the Hillelzapoppin dance and chose Lois Schenker and Selvan Madow to be the king and queen of the evening. The Hillel Foundation participated in

lutheran student association

The Lutheran Student Association strengthens and sustains Christian students in their faith through the use of the Bible, through prayer and through regular church attendance.

At the weekly meetings in the Rec Hall lounge, club members enjoyed guest speakers, discussions on Christian topics, motion pictures, musical programs, and worship services.

The Association is working closely with the newly formed Hope Lutheran Church of College Park as a service project. This organization also participates in fall and spring weekend retreats with Baltimore and Washington LSA members at Jolly Acres in Baltimore County, Maryland. Representatives traveled to the Regional Conference at Buck Hill Falls.

wesley foundation

"To provide a home away from home for Methodists and their friends" is the purpose of the Wesley Foundation. The club sponsors a variety of activities for its members. Early in the year they had a panel discussion on "Why Force My Religion on Others?" Students who recently returned from abroad addressed members on "The World at Our Door" at another meeting.

The Wesley group attended a fall retreat at Camp Conoy located on the Chesapeake Bay in Maryland. Among their other activities were a career forum, making favors for patients recovering at Prince George General Hospital, and sending deputation teams to other churches.

westminster foundation

The Westminster Foundation, Presbyterian student organization, stresses brotherhood in all its activities. Tuesday nights were set apart for Bible study under the leadership of the Rev. Jesse Myers, while Sunday evenings were spent at the Supper Club held at Riverdale Presbyterian Church.

Deputation teams visited nearby Presbyterian churches, where they taught Sunday School, spoke at Young People's groups, or took part in the church services. This summer an "outreach commission" will go to the Southwest and will work for eight weeks on an Indian reservation. Members will also aid the Friends' Slum Repair Work Project in Washington.

student religious council

The Student Religious Council serves to coordinate the activities of all religious clubs on the University of Maryland campus and to stimulate joint interfaith activities. Advised by the faculty's Religious Life Committee, the Council is composed of representatives from each of the nine clubs. Meetings of the group are held each Tuesday afternoon in the Council Office of the University Memorial Chapel.

Foremost in their activities each year is the planning of the Religious Emphasis Week. This year's theme was "Be Still and Know that I Am GOD." During the week of February 25, 1953, fireside chats, skeptics hours, talks by outstanding religious leaders, and church services were featured in the celebration of interfaith activities.

Three interfaith convocations were sponsored by the Council during the year. The Protestant Convocation was honored by the presence of the Reverend Bryan Green, one of the foremost Episcopal ministers in England. The Roman Catholic and the Jewish Convocations also had outstanding leaders of their faiths as the main speakers on their program of events for the occasion.

The Memorial Chapel services were also coordinated by the Council.

stein, Betty Jean Porter, Ann Echols Lewis, Robert F. Drost, Chaplain. Third row: Michael Potash, Cathy Fitch, Anton Grobani, Lowell Ran. Fourth row: Gene Kibbe, Clarence Pusey, Gordon Weinberg.

The athletic teams fielded by the University of Maryland for the year of 1952-'53 again brought outstanding honor and acclaim from all corners of the nation. Playing with the same principles which are taught in all phases of learning at Maryland, that of fairness, integrity and above all, sportsmanship, the players and the students learned to take the bitter with the sweet. Starting out on the same victory road which ended the 1951 season; the football team won their first seven starts, but failed to win its last two . . . thus learning and teaching that defeat will eventually come even to the strongest. But such memories were quickly put into the shadows of time as Basketball, Boxing and Wrestling came into their own to be followed by the sundry Spring sports. Each in its turn bringing respect from all quarters as the scoreboard at the end showed the Red and White ahead, or saw a driving Terp break the tape ahead of all others.

athletic council

The Athletic Council for the University of Maryland, comprised of eight persons, all of whom are members of the faculty with the exception of the president of the Student Government Association, establishes and maintains the athletic policies for the institution.

The members of the Council are chosen from every phase of endeavor within the University in order that all may receive equal representation. Then, too, each is chosen for his appreciation of athletics, and his desire to see all forms of such activity continued and improved at Maryland.

Chairmaned by Geary F. Eppley, Dean of Men, the Council has as its leader one who has been in constant association with the University since his graduation many years ago. With experience gained through active athletic participation while a student, Dean Eppley handles his position well.

M club

The M Club is composed of athletes and team managers who have won their letter in the many forms of athletics offered by the University. This year the Club was headed by President, Bill Larash:

Vice-President, Morty Cohen; Secretary, Bill Andrews, and Treasurer, Sid Cohen.

The active program sponsored by the M Club enters into many fields of campus life. The Club's biggest function each year is the Homecoming celebration which is co-sponsored with the Student Government Association. In addition, the M Club works in assisting the Freshman Orientation program, and the pep rallies. Moreover, the M Club brings many prominent speakers to the Maryland campus for the benefit of all students.

maryland's football all americas

jack scarbath

There was no doubt in the minds of the Nation's football experts . . . writers and broadcasters that quarterback Jack Scarbath was an All America. Scarbath was tops on the Associated Press, United Press, International News, Newspaper Enterprise Alliance, Collier's, Look, All America Board, New York Daily News and Sporting News Teams. Scarbath was picked by Collier's as the Back of the Year, and was on the Chicago Tribune's All Player second team.

During the season Scarbath set a new University record by completing 59 of 113 passes for 1149 yards and 10 touchdowns in nine games. In brief, during the 1952 football season, Maryland had at its helm the best quarterback in the nation.

dick modzelewski

Dick "Little Mo" Modzelewski is a 235 pound giant, and an All America in every sense of the word. After a season in which he proved himself to be the greatest tackle ever to play at Maryland, Dick Mo was acclaimed tops by United Press, Newspaper Enterprise Alliance, Collier's, Look, All America Board, New York Daily News and Sporting News. Like Scarbath, he too made the Chicago Tribune's All Player second team. Look Magazine picked "Little Mo" as its choice for Lineman of the Year.

Heading up the famous "M Club" of Modzelewski, Morgan and Maletsky, Dick continually received praise and admiration from his coaches and opponents during the year. A truly great player is Dick Modzelewski.

Although Maryland stumped its toe after winning 22 straight games and lost its last two games of the 1952 campaign no one should grumble over its 7-2 mark for the season. In fact, after watching them at home and in Boston it was hard for the Terp followers to realize what happened at Oxford, Mississippi, and Mobile, Alabama. These upsets caused Maryland to slip from the No. 2 ranking to 13th in the final Associated Press poll and lifted

Ole Miss to 7th and Alabama to 9th and both to bowl games.

The highlights of the season were headed by the breaking of several Maryland football records. Jack Scarbath shattered the former record set by Tommy Mont in 1942 as the '52 QB completed 59 passes out of 113 attempts for a total of 1119 yards. Offensive end, Lloyd Colteryahn, broke the pass receiving record and then set his own.

coaches and seniors

John Alderton . . . co-captain of 1952 Terps . . . great defensive end from Cumberland, Md. . . . here Tatum said he could move a mountain if he had to.

Walt Boeri, guard from Long Island . . . performed well as linebacker . . . suffered injury early in season but supplied plenty of brawn in plugging holes.

Lloyd Colteryahn . . . record breaking offensive end . . . hails from Brentwood, Pa. . . . big and fast and provided excellent target for Seabath's passes.

Tom Cosgrove . . . offensive center from Philadelphia . . . rated the best to ever perform at Maryland . . . In three years of duty never once caused a fumble.

Bob DeStefano . . . first replacement behind Scarbath . . . a fine passer . . . also calls excellent series of plays . . . is from Providence, R. I.

Frank Navarro . . . guard from White Plains, N. Y. . . . was excellent blocker for his size . . . lettered all three years . . . a hard worker with hustle.

Ed Fullerton . . . co-captain for 1952 . . . Heroically disproved 60 minute men are no more in Sugar Bowl . . . one of Maryland's greatest defensive backs.

Paul Nestor . . . excellent defensive end from Parsons, W. Va. . . . a fast and sure blocker . . . likes it rough and makes it tough to get around him.

Art Hurd . . . guard from Gardner, Mass. . . . nicknamed "Mother" by his teammates . . . liked it rough and tough . . . finished the year as ace line-backer.

Jack Scarbath . . . Maryland's greatest QB . . . picked for everybody's All America team . . . broke almost all of Maryland's previous passing records . . . None better.

Bill Maletzky . . . guard from White Plains, N. Y. . . . Member of famous "M" Club . . . is a vicious and fast tackler . . . played the line as if he owned it.

Ray Stankus . . . guard from Philadelphia, Pa. . . . first string offensive guard with a lot of drive and determination . . . good on defense as well as offense.

Dick Modzelewski . . . great All America tackle from West Natrona, Pa. . . . Picked as lineman of the year by Look . . . was backbone of rock-ribbed defense.

Lou Weidensaul . . . other great offensive end from Ashland, Pa. . . . makes supreme effort to catch every pass with big hands and long reach.

the '52 terrapin football squad

Coltervahn broke Pete Augsburg's record of 25 catches for 422 yards in 10 games by catching 32 aerials for 493 yards and 5 touchdowns in 9 games. Bernie Faloney and Fred Heffner did a great job of punting as they had a combined average of 39.1 for 11 punts during the season. Faloney averaged 39.2 for 29 boots and Heffner 39.3 for 12 kicks despite the fact he had one blocked. Chet Hanulak was the leading ground gainer with 491 yards in 79 carries for an average of 6-1/3 yards per try. He also completed three passes for 10 yards.

Thus Maryland's football season closed with a defeat in its last two games, but as a very great man once said, "... who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who have tasted neither victory nor defeat."

The Fall and Winter teams produced during that period of the year once again brought fame and acclaim to Maryland. The Terp soccer squad failed to produce its second straight Conference championship, but nevertheless finished second behind the Duke Blue Devils. The Old Line cross country team suffered its first defeat after 29 straight wins to a strong Navy squad, but finished the remainder of the season undefeated in dual meets, and wound up second to North Carolina State in the Conference.

Maryland squads moved indoors, starting with basketball which again won a berth in the Conference playoffs. The wrestling team, boasting five S.C. champions, once again ripped through an excellent season. The boxing team tied the Syracuse mittmen in the Sugar Bowl in its first outing of the year, while the rifle team set an unprecedented scoring record, beating both Army and Navy in the process.

SOCCER

Maryland's soccer team, which Coach Doyle Royal had to rebuild after losing a number of his stars for various reasons, wound up its season with seven triumphs, one loss and one tie.

After an opening loss to Penn State, one of the Nation's powers, the Terp booters rolled unbeaten for the remainder of the season, with the exception of a 1-all tie with Duke.

Receiving national ranking for the Liner's team was Tom Baden, rated All America and All South. Three of Baden's teammates, Hector Ormachea, Mario Eterovic, and Jim Reiner also received All South recognition.

Losses from a large squad will be fullbacks Joe Rigano and Bill Fell, halfback Dick McKenzie and Captain Dave Williams, outside right.

CROSS COUNTRY

Maryland Coach Jim Kehoe's 1952 Cross Country team had another successful campaign, although it had its dual meet streak of 29 victories broken by one point when Navy won the opener at Annapolis, 27-28.

John Tibbets, who finished first in all the dual meets except that with Richmond, and ran third in the Conference title race, was the team's leader. He will be the team's only loss next season.

Ben Goode, a freshman from West Virginia, also was outstanding and the others who contributed heavily to the Terps' success were Don Goldstein, Ray Horsely, Kenny Thornton, Joe Swafford, Larry Faass and Jerry McGee.

Sparked by a steady and soft spoken Gene Shue, Coach Bud Milliken's basketball team finished second in the Conference with a 12-3 record, which assured the team of a seeded position in the play-offs.

Outstanding game of the year was against W&L when Shue set a new record with 11 points, and a new Terp record was set as the team hit for 87 points.

BOXING

Coach Frank Cronin's boxing team started the season with more talent under its belt than in many a year, but equally strong opponents in Syracuse and Michigan State forced the Terps to take two defeats and a tie, one in the Sugar Bowl.

Gary Garber, former All Army bantam weight, could be counted upon to bolster the squad at either 119 or 125.

The terps could also boost two other champs, one in Guido Capri, the other in Ronnie Rhodes. Capri, who hails from North Carolina, was a former Golden Gloves champ, fighting in Madison Square Garden when only 16. Rhodes had taken the Conference crown at 165 the year previous.

In addition to these talented boxers, Maryland could once again rely upon Bill McInnis, Jackie Letzer and Cal Quenstedt, all of whom were returning veterans.

WRESTLING

Coach Sully Krouse opened the Maryland wrestling season with five Southern Conference Champions returning to his team, all of whom were Juniors.

Bob and Ernie Fischer, Jack Shanahan, Matt Flynn, and Rod Norris all were back in the fall to help carry the Terrapins to an undefeated Southern Conference record.

The only match which the Old Liners lost during the season was against a strong Penn State. The biggest pleasure of the season, however, came when the Terps dumped the Navy's Midshipmen, 15-11 while visiting the Academy. This win over the future admirals was sparked by a new-comer to the Maryland squad, Bob Drake. Moved into the heavyweight class from 173 for this match, Drake pulled it out of the fire in the last few minutes.

RIFLE

The University of Maryland rifle team, competing in both intercollegiate competition and in the Maryland Rifle Civilian League, was undefeated during the past year.

High scorer for the varsity team was Roy Oster, who compiled a 288.83 average during the course of the year. Oster's highest score for the season was a 293 out of a possible 300.

The Air Force ROTC rifle team is composed of those members of the varsity team who are AFROTC cadets. About one-half of the varsity squad are in the ROTC training program.

Last year the ROTC team won the Air Force Championship Trophy and five first-place medals.

The sharp-eyed Terps did a great job this year on two of their intercollegiate competitors, Army and Navy. In taking Navy for the sixth time in seven tries, the Terps broke the Annapolis range record of 1132 which they set last year.

However, the outstanding win of the year came in the National Intercollegiate Rifle Team Championships which the Liners won with a world breaking score of 1112 out of 1500, five points better than MIT's mark of last year. The team was composed of Bob Martorana, Bud Barton, Bob Mouser, Linn Savage and Roy Oster.

The Spring of 1952 brought to Maryland sport fans a season filled with surprises and disappointments, and at the same time brought to them stars they had seen toting the colors of Maryland during the fall and winter tours.

Baseball opened at though it was determined to again take the Southern Conference Northern Division crown, but slumped early. The Terp track team again came home with the Conference outdoor championship. A slam-bang lacrosse squad showed All American form for the first five tilts, but wound up the season with a 6-3 record. They failed to make it two in a row over Johns Hopkins, but they did not go down in defeat either, holding them to a thrilling 10-10 overtime tie.

The tennis team finished with the second best record of all time. For the second successive year, the Terp net men received national ranking. The golf team was a much improved squad, and was sparked by a sophomore who failed to drop a single match. The Linkmen posted an 8-3 season record and won the Western Maryland Invitation.

BASEBALL

The Terrapin baseball team, finishing their season with an 11-9 record, failed for the first time in three years to make the Southern Conference playoffs. They could boast only of a 4-6 Conference mark. Several newcomers to the diamond squad, however, make the outlook seem much brighter for the coming season. These men include infielders Eddie Miller and Bernie Faloney, outfielder Crester Hanulak and pitcher Connie Hemp-hill. Also under the coach's eye for future honors is Tom Baden who as a pinch hitter led in batting honors with a thumping .378. Baden participated in eight contests during the season.

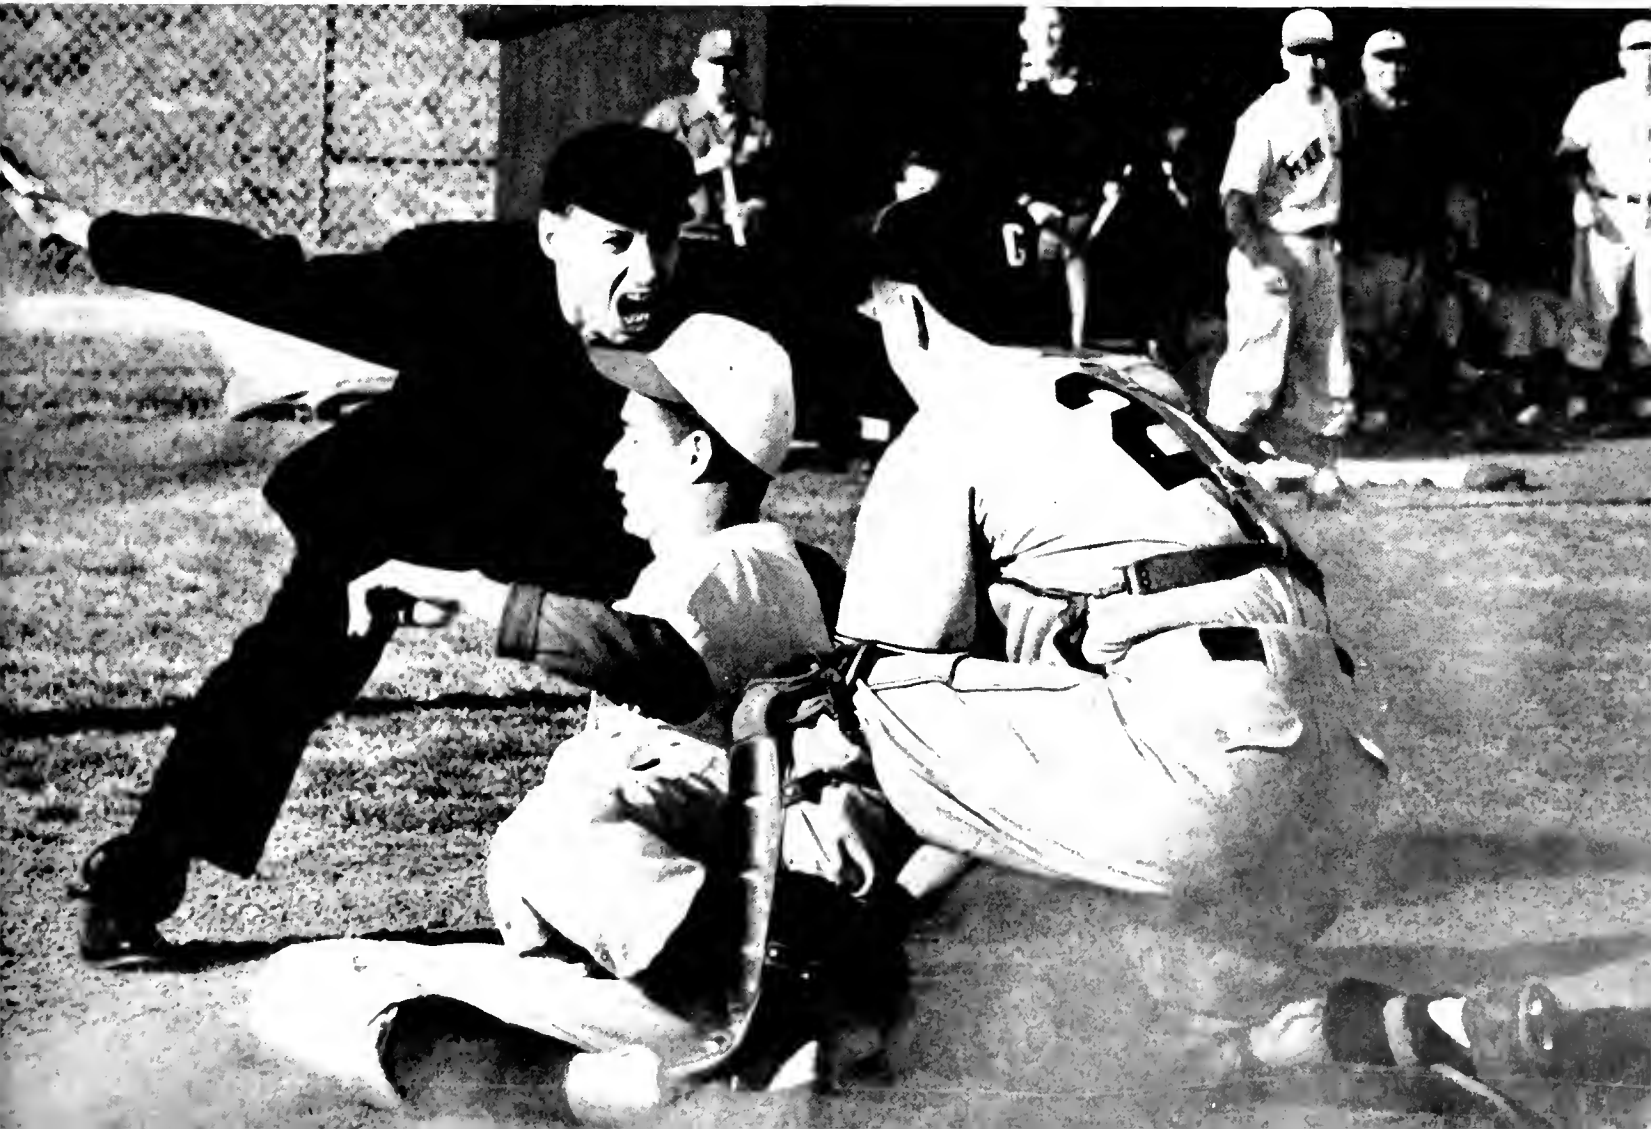

Faloney, fresh from a good season under coach Tatum, performed equally well for Coach Shipley, who was completing his 29th year as head baseball coach. Faloney, the coaching staff's top choice for shortstop, could move easily to either his right or left, covering the area like a blanket, and proved to be a constant threat at the plate.

Hanulak tied with Faloney for batting honors among the regulars, hitting .306. Performing regularly in the outfield, Hanulak led the squad in stolen bases with 15 thefts for the season.

a winning pitcher . . .

For Coach Shipley turned up in the form of Connie Hemphill. Hemphill won his first six starts before dropping a game. Winning over half of the season's games, Hemphill rounded out the year with a 7-2 record. Pitching every other game, he was twice aided in victories by Hanulak who stole home against Rutgers and Washington and Lee two times in each game.

In the local rivalries with Georgetown and George Washington, the Terps split even in two games with each school, thus ending in a triangular tie for the mythical District of Columbia Championship.

The Maryland coaching staff holds bright possibilities for the coming year as their entire infield is returning. It is comprised of Eddie Miller at third, Dick Blake at second, Ernie Berliner and Ike Love at first. Dave Zatz is scheduled to bolster the infield after spending a year in the service.

Jack Faber and Al Hagey, served as Terp lacrosse coaches.

Starting the season with a partly inexperienced squad, coaches Jack Faber and Al Hagey led their charges through their initial five games undefeated. One of the first to fall before the Terps were the Cavaliers of Virginia. They smarted under a 12-11 whipping, their only loss of the year. The others to go down before the Liners were Washington and Lee, Williams College, Harvard, and Duke. Then disaster struck. Maryland lost their next three games to Navy, Princeton and Army, but rebounded with a 7-1 victory over Loyola. Playing before a Johns Hopkins homecoming capacity crowd, the Terps battled the highly touted Blue Jays to a 10-10 overtime thriller.

At the start of the season, the only experienced department Coach Faber had to call upon was the defense, with Bill Larash in the goal, Bill Hubbell, Charlie Wenzel, Dwight Hawksworth and Jack Scarbath filling the roster. Tom Lillis paced the scorers with 17 goals, backed up by Rennie Smith with 12, George Corrigan with 11, John Gilbert with nine and Fred Estes with eight. With the close of the season, the coach's biggest problem was to find replacements for the sparkling play of his two All Americas Larash and Hubbell, and the outstanding attack play of Hillary.

TRACK

Once again the Spring edition of the Old Line track squad rolled to an impressive win in the D.C.A.V.U. track and field championships. Compiling a total of 99-1/6 points, the Terps were not threatened at any time. Taking eight firsts for the day, and scoring in each of the 16 events, the Maryland squad kept pouring it on. The cinder-men, however, met a stumbling block early in the season while visiting the Midshipmen from Annapolis, and lost their only meet of the season. Undaunted, the Terps returned to form and remained so for the season. Scoring a comparatively easy win over the Quantico Marines, the Terps next met and beat North Carolina. Lastly, the Liners defeated Georgetown for the seventh consecutive year.

Going into the Conference meet with a better record than the previous year, the Maryland squad compiled a total of 57.5 points to bring the crown back to College Park. Al Buchler attempted to repeat his 380 championship run of the year before, but was nosed out at the tape by scant inches. Three first places were taken by Cohen, Lentz and Unterkoller in the hurdles, high jump and shot put. By winning the S.C. crown, Maryland broke a seven year North Carolina hold on the title.

GOLF

Showing much improvement over their previous season, Maryland's linksmen pounded their way to a season total of eight wins and three losses. Coach Frank Cronin was pleased with the play of two freshmen, Russ Clark and Carl Kroneberger. Also due back after an excellent season are Bill Buppert who failed to drop a single match while alternating between the number one and two posts. The remainder of the squad was composed of Bob Miller, Joe Rudiger and Bob Steinwedle. Miller and Rudiger were the only graduating seniors.

TENNIS

The Old Liner tennis team finished their season with an 11-1 record, and by so doing were ranked fifth nationally. This was the second year in a row the Terps received national acclaim. The only team to mar an otherwise perfect seasonal performance was once again the Midshipmen from Annapolis. Team captain Lee Childs and freshman Bud Leightheiser led the squad with records of 10-1 and 10-2 respectively.

INTRAMURALS

Twenty-six separate forms of competition are offered to the student body of the University of Maryland through its intramural program. This program is divided into two categories, one for the fraternities and one for dormitories and off-campus students. Where leagues are formed for elimination purposes, a play-off between the two categories is held to determine the University champion. A 100% participation is boasted by the fraternity league.

The intramural program is handled by Coach Jim Kehoe. Through his guidance, the entire program is established, and needed officials are supplied.

The winner of the basketball tournament, the program in which the largest amount of students participate, was won by Phi Delta Theta. The football championship was split by Kappa Alpha and the T. D. Wildcats. University champions in the volley ball league were Tau Epsilon Phi, winner of the fraternity categorie, and conquerors of the open league All Stars.

While the winners of the individual sports were many, the University can boast of the fact that only one sport needs off-campus facilities, that being bowling. When it comes to awards, Maryland intramural awards are given to all first and second place winners.

WOMEN'S RECREATION ASSOC.

The Women's Recreation Association plans the women's intramural program. Through its activities, W.R.A. offers opportunities for attaining many life-enriching qualities. It encourages a life-long enthusiasm for activities of all kinds. The W.R.A., headed by Francis White, president; Molly Turner, vice-president; Gloria Wallerstein, recording secretary; Peggy Hogan, treasurer, and Wilma Brown, corresponding secretary, plans tournaments for bowling, basketball, volleyball, badminton, tennis, softball and swimming. Some of the dormitories and sororities sponsor a tournament which means they give a cup or trophy and may help manage the tournament.

Last year bowling was won by Alpha Epsilon Phi, basketball by Sigma Kappa, volleyball by Delta Gamma, swimming by Dorm II, badminton singles by Jean Monk, tennis singles by Jane Short and softball by Dorm II.

Many typical college freshmen's dreams about the gala, dashing, and glamorous college dorm life are replaced by the two ten-thirty permissions on week days and specified and enforced quiet hours; but these restrictions do not thwart their dreams or lessen their anticipated fun. Housing units are one of the primary factors in college life and are an important portion of the well known education that cannot be found in text books or in classroom. The impromptu and lengthy gab sessions, the tempting and delicious packages from the folks at home, and the encouraging words of advice from your experienced, newly made friends all go into making up a part of education that cannot be found in any other way. Yes, no one can forget or replace the experience gained from the first college dorm, whether it was a weather beaten temporary unit or a large brick residence hall. It's truly "a home away from home".

A fraternity can be the most rewarding experience in college life. For it is in our fraternities that we form the contacts that will last far after the memories of blue books and eight o'clocks have faded away. It is in the Greek groups that we learn a little of that American experience, democracy. It is in the fraternity houses that we live, work, and play together. In fraternity life we do not just plan for the weekend parties. Fraternity living is something far less tangible and far more rewarding than that. We work together, and through that experience are formed the bonds that make us grow. It is in the wonderful experience of fraternity life that we gain a clearer sight of our goals. It is in fraternity life that we attempt to convey the atmosphere that is so typically Maryland.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Interfraternity Council once again completed a year which can be looked back upon with pride. Carrying on the same program which won for them the honor of being proclaimed the outstanding IFC in the nation one year previous, this year's Council added to its list of accomplishments a scholarship for two deserving men on the Maryland campus. In addition to this endeavor, the Council also made arrangements to contribute solidly to the Campus Chest through the same means which supplied the funds for the scholarships.

The other projects continued by the Council included the replacement of Hell Week with Help Week. This included the work contributed by fraternities toward helping the City Council of College Park carry out its clean up drives. Also time was spent in helping the University complete its blood drive in a successful manner, and in addition, the Council proposed a new rush system whereby rushees would be directed to more houses and thus be able to make a better choice of fraternities.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

The climax of fall rushing was pledging on September 21 closely followed by the annual Pledge Dance on October 13. Pretty Pat Brown, Alpha Chi Omega, was crowned pledge queen with Polly Brobst, Alpha Xi Delta, and Sally Miller, Tri-Delt, as runners-up.

The Council had a party in October with the junior Panhellenic Council so that the two groups could become acquainted.

Two meetings were held for the pledges of all sororities; the first on study habits, the second on the Panhellenic Association.

In November the Council was busy revising the rules for informal rushing in February.

Again this year the Council supported a war orphan in Yugoslavia through the Foster Parent's Plan. She is a fifteen year old that was adopted by the Council several years ago.

Their busy schedule came to an end in the spring when they gave a tea for their housemothers and they installed their new officers.

FRATERNITIES

HOW MUCH IS A FRATERNITY WORTH. . . .

Here at Maryland we have twenty-five groups who go under the title of "fraternities." It is only logical that we stop to ask the question: Just how much is membership in a national college fraternity worth? There are definite answers to this question, and every man who bids another to membership ought to have the answer. Today, as never before, independents on various campuses need to be convinced of the value of belonging to a Greek-letter organization. What then does a fraternity chapter offer to make membership a desirable investment? One of our first answers could easily be: a fraternity gives training for management and cooperation, and thus leads to citizenship.

Members of a fraternity chapter meet many problems in carrying on financial activities necessary for maintaining rooming, boarding, and entertainment services. This provides helpful training for the future. Not only are members responsible for their financial reputation, but they are also responsible for their social standing. By giving every member a vote, and equal rights—the fraternity becomes a citizenship laboratory.

A fraternity gives one the sense of belonging to a campus family. By being associated with a group of like interests and similar ideals—one becomes more aware of the fact that Brotherhood is not an idle word; that it involves honest affection. Sharing the work, play, joy and sorrow of a group will enrich one's college days tremendously.

The winning, unselfish group living, and the lasting friendships and help will endure for years.

SORORITIES

SORORITIES IMPORTANCE TO FRESHMEN . . .

Early in September, long before the classrooms open, there are groups on campus eagerly preparing a welcome for the new coeds. These industrious people are the sorority girls. They are busily planning the parties that will keep the coeds in a constant whirl for a week. When the freshmen arrive, many smiles appear as the process known as rushing begins. During the week of Registration the girls are escorted from house to house and lavishly entertained. Finally the dizzy week is over and, after much deliberation, the choice is made. The coed is pledged to a sorority and finds herself a niche in the mass of humanity that comprises the University. Fall finds her decorating the house for homecoming, planning exchange parties with other sororities, and cheering on the football team at rallies and from her card section seat on Saturday afternoons. Winter comes and brings with it the many holiday pinnings. She finds her front porch the scene of melodious invasions from other Greek groups. Exams arrive, and the pajama parties and nights in front of the TV set are postponed for awhile. A new semester begins, and the bridge parties and late hour sessions are back in full swing. With the passing of winter come thoughts of the Interfraternity Slag, and the coed is now busy practicing her sorority's favorite songs. Spring ushers in the campus elections, and our coed finds herself a virtual Queen in her campaign orations. All too soon June arrives, and the coed leaves anticipating three more years of fun, friendships, and activity in her sorority.

Tri Deltas entertain rushees during first week of the fall semester of 1952.

Intent faces and earnest voices at Kappa Kappa Gamma slumber party.

They run "like synchronized clockwork" aptly describe the administration of The University of Maryland. At one time or another, we, the students, have through our associations with them come to realize that this is undoubtedly true. The administrators are called upon to handle a multitude of duties and situations. With insight born of true understanding and delight in human nature and their jobs, the hard-working administration has yet to be stampeded by their duties. An ever-ready, "Hello, there" is their trade mark whether you just pass them on campus or go to them with one of your numerous problems. Every position requires tact and understanding as part of the everyday routine; and these two qualities are an inherent part of their make up. With the demand for college trained workers mounting every day, they are faced with the ever increasing task of equipping the students to meet the future.

HARRY C. BYRD

President of the University of Maryland

No individual is better qualified to represent the progressive spirit of Maryland University than President Harry C. Byrd. His meteoric rise has paralleled and complemented the spectacular growth of the University.

Along with an eleven-man Board of Regents, Dr. Byrd has continually fought for the development of a University that would be worthy of the State. Time and time again he has withstood the charges of a hostile Baltimore press and won over the Maryland Legislature.

The chemistry and physics buildings are completed; the math building will be finished in a matter of months. The plans for a Student Union Building and for Fraternity-Sorority Row are almost ready to be put to action.

One service about which Dr. Byrd can well be proud is that of the magnificent chapel in which those of all faiths may worship freely.

Yes, this modern, well-equipped educational plant is proof of the effectiveness of his job.

TOP: Dr. Byrd receives a silver service for the new Memorial Chapel, as the religious advisors look on.

BOARD OF REGENTS

The University of Maryland's Board of Regents fulfills the function toward the administration that the faculty does for the students. It is through their aid and guidance that our officials are able to secure the most beneficial results for the University. For many years the Board of Regents has formed the policies by which this state University has prospered and expanded. It is to the Board that we owe our gratitude for the long-awaited recognition that is now Maryland's. The results of the Board's decisions are shown in the constant expansion of our school. Its steady growth serves as a tribute to the present Board and to their very capable predecessors.

The eleven members who compose the Board of Regents are appointed by the governor of the state to serve a term of nine years, beginning on the first Monday in June. The President of the University, Harry C. Byrd, upon his appointment to office, automatically fills the position as Executive officer. The members of the Board are prominent citizens in the state of Maryland, and are chosen because they represent different fields of endeavor which are pertinent to the welfare of the University. Among these various fields are agriculture, industry, aviation, business, government, and general welfare. We look forward to continued progress under their able guidance.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Alumni are the University of Maryland. Graduates and former students are associated 30,000 strong in an organization designed to advance the interests of the University, promote closer fellowship among the alumni and students and to develop mutually beneficial relations between the University and the people of the State. Any university is judged by the accomplishments of its graduates, and Maryland may well be proud of the many who have carried her name far in public service and accomplishment. Eleven school organizations and twelve geographical clubs form the base for a governing council of forty members. All former students are automatically members of the Association. They in turn welcome new graduates recognizing that the progress of the University is hinged upon the interest of its alumni.

DEAN OF WOMEN

What a wonderful counselor and friend Miss Adele Stamp is! Her door is always open to her students for she enjoys talking with them and helping them with their problems.

Miss Stamp, who is a graduate of Tulane University, came to Maryland as a graduate student where she received her M.A. degree. She founded the local chapter of Mortar Board and is the National Treasurer of Alpha Lambda Delta.

Chief among her interests at Maryland are Panhellenic, Mortar Board, Alpha Lambda Delta, Women's League, and May Day.

When asked what part of her full time job she enjoys most, Miss Stamp smilingly replied, "I like all of it" and she has particularly enjoyed working with young people and watching the university grow.

DEAN OF MEN

Dean Geary F. Eppley is now completing his thirty-first year here at Maryland. They have been thirty-one busy years in which he has been concerned with almost every phase of campus life, seeking to aid everyone that comes to him with a question or a problem.

While Mr. Eppley was an undergraduate at Maryland, he played end on the football team. He graduated from the College of Agriculture in 1920 and after working for the Veteran's Administration, joined the faculty. While professor of Agronomy, he found time to coach the track team. In 1926, he received his M.S. degree and in 1936 was appointed Director of Athletics and Dean of Men. This year Mr. Eppley was responsible for Chapel altar equipment.

DR. RONALD BAMFORD came to the campus in 1931 from Columbia where he was Assistant Professor of Botany. By 1944 he attained the position of Head of the Botany Department. By 1949 Dr. Bamford was both Acting Dean of the Graduate School and Associate Dean of Agriculture. As Dean of the Graduate School, made permanent in 1950, he has complete charge of all graduate students in College Park and Baltimore. It is his duty to take charge of admissions, supervise all programs to see that they are offering the correct courses, and certify and approve the completion of every graduate student's requirements.

DR. HAROLD F. COTTERMAN has been at the University since 1917. Prior to that date, he was Professor of Agriculture Education at Columbia University. He has been Dean of Faculty since 1946 when he gave up all work in connection with Agriculture Education to assume that position. He has many diversified duties as Dean of the Faculty. To co-ordinate the academic programs and procedures is his basic duty, but many are the duties contained in that statement. Under his jurisdiction also is the publication of college catalogs, arrangement of the schedule of classes, room assignments, and student aid measures.

DR. RAY EHRENSBERGER was named Dean of the College of Special and Continued Studies this year. Previously he held the positions of Head of Speech and Dramatic Department, Director of the Overseas Program in Germany, and Director of the Bi-National Center in Ankara, Turkey. Now as Dean of CSCS Dr. Ehrensberger still spends about fifty percent of his time traveling. He is charged with adult educational programs off campus with a vast amount of work done for the Armed Forces. This college covers an area including Maryland, Washington, North Atlantic region, Africa, Asia, Europe, and the United Kingdom.

HOWARD ROVELSTAD, Director of Libraries

ADMINISTRATION

The Administration, headed by the President of the University, Dr. Harry C. Byrd, is a staff which assists the president in the coordination of the University program between students and faculty. The general policies of the University of Maryland are the direct concern of the group because these policies affect the students, faculty, and administration which make up the composition of the University. Of these three components of the University, the Administration, more than any other single group, represents the college to the public. The Administration acts as the official spokesmen of the University. Every year affairs have become increasingly complex in proportion to the yearly expansion of enrollment, thus adding to the responsibility of the administration.

STUDENT LIFE COMMITTEE

The Student Life Committee, appointed by the president, is made up of faculty members who are genuinely interested in student affairs. It serves as a connecting link between the students and administrative officers. The members are closely associated with every phase of student life, excepting classroom work. They cooperate with and act in an advisory capacity in all extra-curricular activities, as well as to suggest improvements in any unsatisfactory conditions or situations which may arise. The Committee is also responsible for the approval of all clubs, societies, and organizations wishing to become established at, or connected with the University of Maryland.

AGRICULTURE

Students of agriculture have a well-rounded program. The curriculum is designed to provide them with a liberal general education in addition to the specialized work in a given area of agriculture. Many complex processes are applied to food from the time it is produced by the farmer until it reaches the consumer. Work in this area has been developed in order to meet the challenge and needs of our times.

Many of the teachers are also participating in the research or extension program studying problems affecting agriculture and food production, and the development of new varieties, processing, and economic factors in connection with food.

The College of Arts and Sciences, the largest in the University, offers its students a liberal education. It seems to develop graduates who can cope intelligently with the problems which confront them and whose general education will be a continuing source, not only of material profit, but of genuine personal satisfaction. It also offers each student the opportunity to concentrate in the field of his choice; this element of depth serves both as an integral part of his liberal education and as a foundation for further professional training or pursuits. In addition to this, the College also offers to students of other colleges courses required for complete training in their field.

Dean J. Freeman Pyle

Dean Wilbur Devilbiss

BUSINESS and PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

The College of Business and Public Administration draws together and coordinates a number of fields of educational activities that furnish educational background and professional training for business administration and for public and governmental services. The Departments of Business Organization, Economics, Geography, Government and Politics, Office Techniques, and Journalism and Public Relations furnish specialized and professional training in their respective fields. The Bureaus of Business and Economic Research and Government Research are instrumentalities for the development of research abilities and for the production of significant results.

The College of Education prepares each year several hundred students to enter the profession of teaching in junior and senior high schools, nursery schools and kindergartens, and schools of nursing and dentistry. It also provides professional courses for students in other colleges of the University.

The College offers a wide variety of professional courses at the graduate level designed to serve the needs of teachers, administrators, supervisors and other professional personnel of the public schools and other educational institutions. It also provides a diversified selection of professional courses for graduate students of Physical Education, Health, and Recreation.

Dean M. Marie Mount

ENGINEERING

The past year was one of progress in all phases of the work of the Glenn L. Martin College of Engineering and Aeronautical Sciences. With the national accreditation of the curriculum in Aeronautical Engineering, the newest department, the College achieved the distinction of having all its five undergraduate curricula fully recognized.

Preparation for better living is the goal of the College of Home Economics. Through its varied curricula, the College offers a liberal education combined with training for a career and a successful home life. Practical Art, Crafts, Textiles and Clothing, Institution Management, Foods and Nutrition, Education and Extension are included in National recognition was also received for the Maryland experiment of integrating industrial safety into the engineering courses. The U. S. Department of Labor, in cooperation with the College of Engineering, produced a sound motion picture being shown throughout the country, entitled "Design for Safety".

HOME ECONOMICS

the curricula, which satisfies both creative and artistic inclinations and factual and scientific interests.

Due to the increasing enrollment of the College, a number of innovations have been necessary. These include the addition of a nutrition lab, a recitation room, and labs for home furnishings and crafts, the latter equipped with a kiln.

Colonel Joseph R. Ambrose

Dean L. M. Fraley

MILITARY SCIENCE

Since its inception in 1947 the College of Military Science has increased by leaps and bounds. From one off campus center at the Pentagon the college has increased until it now has some half dozen centers in the Washington area and over 95 centers abroad in Europe and Iceland. The college is established to provide educational opportunities for those whose education has been interrupted as a result of military service. The program abroad is administered by the College of Special and Continued Studies, and the instruction is furnished by the members of the College Park faculty who are sent abroad for this purpose. Over 5000 officers and enlisted men are taking advantage of these courses.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The College of Physical Education, Recreation, and Health is concerned with two major areas: the required service program which involves all students during their first two years at the University, and the professional training program in which students may prepare for careers in physical education, coaching, recreation, dance, health education, and physical therapy. Circumstances of recent times lend particular importance to required programs for both men and women and to preparations of specialists in the various departments of this college. Military demands and increased hours of leisure provided by our economy have also increased the need for physical education.

Four years have passed in the lives of these students. Some are a little wiser—some have developed a hard outer crust—and all, we hope, have passed from youth to maturity.

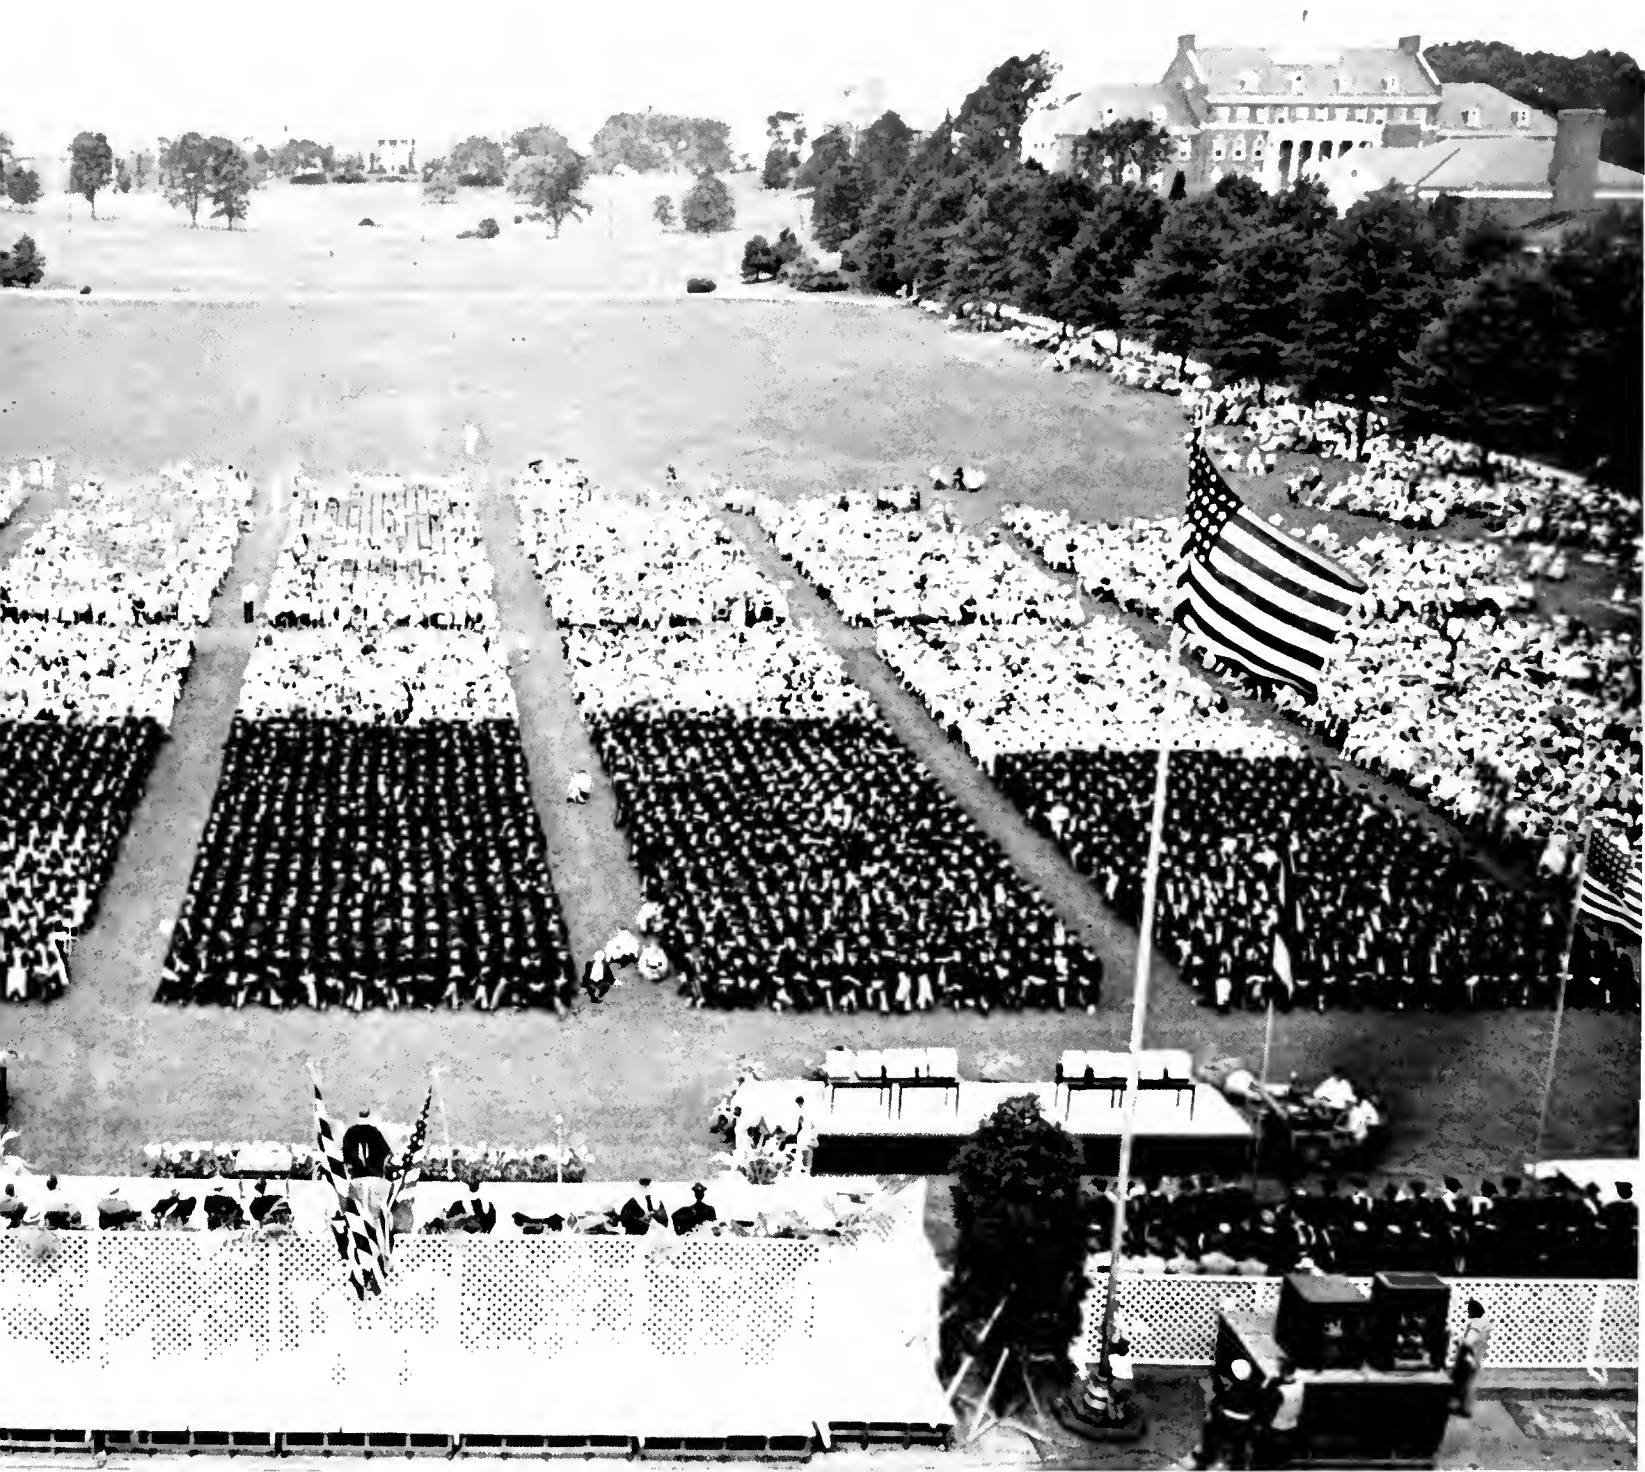

College days go quickly—the interim between freshman bewilderment and senior acuity is gone before one realizes it. Much has been crowded into this time—from fun at Zal's—to sleepless pre-exam nights. The seniors have had experiences that have given their life a purpose. Being away from home has taught them to stand on their own—to make a decision and stand by it.

The graduates have made friendships, to which they've contributed and from which they've profited. In the last analysis, their knowledge of how to live with others and of helping one another is the criterion for judging whether or not these four years have been profitable. We hope they have succeeded.

speaking of terrapins

This year we, the staff of the 1953 Terrapin, have tried to give you a yearbook that is different, one that is more informal and modern, and one that you will like. We sincerely hope that we have succeeded in pleasing you.

However, we could not have come near our goal without the help of many of our friends who have made the completion of this yearbook a reality.

Our sincere thanks go to Al Danegger for his able assistance and fine photography . . . Mr. Irvin Silvers and Mr. George Lilly of Garamond Press who did such a fine job in their first year of handling this yearbook . . . Mr. Larry Stapp of Rideout and Stapp for his time and consideration in adapting to our new style of photography . . . Mr. Baker of Publicity Engravers Incorporated . . . Mr. Frank Werneth of Art Photo Engraving Company . . . Mr. Paul Love of Advertisers Engraving Company . . . Mr. Paul Nelson of the Durand Manufacturing Company for the cover . . . and to Mr. Colonna of Colonna Studios in New York for the seniors' pictures. Last but not least, we extend a hearty thanks to Mr. Bill Hottel for his ever encouraging help and his adeptness with the books in keeping us out of the red.

In conclusion, we'd like to say that we have enjoyed making the book, and we hope that you will enjoy reading it.
